NEW ZEALAND LEADER HERE TO NEGOTIATE TREATY

PREMIER FORBES TO SEE BENNETT ON TRADE PACT

New Zealand Party Touched Canadian Soil This Afternoon En Route to Imperial Conference in London; Visitors Greeted by Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, Representing Canadian Prime Minister; Cordial Welcome Extended on Arrival of R.M.M.S. Aorangi in Port.

Premier George W. Forbes of New Zealand, who is bound to London to attend the Imperial Conference, touched Canadian Soil this afternoon when he arrived here on board the motor liner Aorangi from Auckland.

The visit of Premier Forbes on this occasion is significant by reason of the fact negotiations will be opened at Ottawa leading to the establishment of a new trade treaty between Canada and New Zealand.

UNDER AGREEMENT

Up to the present time the two countries have been exchanging goods under a trade agreement, an offshoot of the Australian Trade Treaty, which was extended by the Mackenzie King Government to New Zealand.

This trade agreement with New Zealand was to have terminated in October, but the whole question has taken on a different aspect as a result of the recent Conservative success at the polls.

Mr. Forbes stated to-day that he intended to see Premier Bennett on his arrival at Ottawa. As the outcome of these pourparlers, it is considered probable that a new trade agreement will be reached and put in treaty form.

MEMBERS OF PARTY

The New Zealand leader is accompanied by Mrs. Forbes. Other members of the party are: Sir Thomas K. Sidey, B.A., LL.B., M.L.C., Attorney-General of New Zealand and leader of the Legislative Council; Lady Sidey; Dr. Craig, controller of Customs; Mrs. Craig and Miss Craig; F. B. Thompson, head of the Prime Minister's Department, secretary of the party; Mr. and Mrs. Berendsen, Mr. Berendsen being of the Prime Minister's Department, Secretary for External Affairs and Imperial Affairs Officer, and A. D. Lewis, chief messenger of the Prime Minister's Department.

MET ON ARRIVAL

Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, C.M.G., D.S.O., district officer commanding Military District No. 11, was at the wharf this afternoon to welcome Premier Forbes and his party on behalf of Premier R. B. Bennett.

The Provincial Government was represented by Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General and acting Premier, and Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education.

Mayor Anscomb and Alderman James Adam went down to the boat to extend a civic welcome.

Bennett Says Parliament Will Prorogue Before He Goes to Imperial Conference

States in Reply to King He Must Sail From Quebec September 23

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The determination not to leave for the Imperial Conference in London until Parliament was prorogued was reiterated in the House of Commons this afternoon by Premier R. B. Bennett after Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, had asked if there was any possibility of the Prime Minister setting out before the closing of the House and leaving the direction of the remainder of the session to one of his ministers.

Mr. Bennett said he understood it required the Prime Minister to complete the delegation from any of the Dominions.

It would be necessary for him to sail from Quebec September 23 to be present at the opening.

Additional Gifts Swelling Total to Relieve Families of Dead Miners

Additional donations to The Times Blakeburn Relief Fund, made yesterday and this morning, have raised the total collected to $761.04 and many other gifts are expected to increase the sum considerably by to-morrow afternoon.

A subscription of $25.00 by the Kingham, Gillespie Coal Company, was the largest registered on the list for the last two days.

Many others, one from four little children, have illustrated the widespread sympathy being shown in the city for the unfortunate families of the Blakeburn miners. Entered simply as a donation from four children, the gift has not only been of material value to those who are in need, but has also tended to stimulate gifts from those who have not yet had time to make their donations.

Vancouver Theft Is Investigated

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—City police are investigating the reported theft of $850 from the safe of the Vancouver News Agency on Homer Street during business hours yesterday morning.

According to a brief report issued by the police, the safe containing the money was unlocked. The office door was also open. In the course of the morning, when officials visited the safe, they found the money missing.

KIWANIS HEAD SEES END OF DEPRESSION

R. M. Crossman of Omaha, International President, on Visit to Vancouver

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—"I think the general consensus of opinion is that we have reached the bottom of the depression, both in this country and in the United States," declared Raymond M. Crossman of Omaha, Nebraska, president of Kiwanis International, as he stepped from the Transcanada train at the C.P.R. depot here this morning.

Mr. Crossman addressed the Vancouver Kiwanis Club at a noon luncheon to-day.

"We are commencing, perhaps imperceptibly now, but perceptibly to the analyst, a permanent upward trend.

"Agriculture, one of the first fields to feel the depression, naturally will be one of the first to recover, gradually going back to a normal position.

"Industries, last to be affected by the change, probably will be later in the upturn," he said.

Mr. Crossman remarked that British Columbia had such a variety of activities that it would be in an exceptionally strong position compared with any other part of the country.

FOREIGN CRAFT ON THE YANGTSE IN SKIRMISHES

Chinese On Banks Use Trench Mortars in Firing on Vessels

Canadian Press

Washington, Sept. 11.—Repeated attacks, accompanied by heavy firing from trench mortars, machine guns and rifles, against United States naval and merchant vessels passing up the Yangtse River were reported to-day to the state department.

Frank P. Lockhart, United States Consul-General at Hankow, cabled similar heavy firing was taking place on "practically all vessels passing a point on the right bank of the Yangtse, forty-five miles this side of Kiukiang."

He said no casualties had been reported.

Notwithstanding that "foreign gunboats" had repeatedly returned the fire, attacks were still being made. He added similar attacks "have taken place at three different points on the river between Chenglingki and Ichang."

VANCOUVER IS TO HAVE NEW HARBOR BOARD

Resignation of Commission Appointed February, 1927, Sent to Government

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Resignation of the members of the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners has gone forward to Ottawa, it is reported, and the government is expected to appoint a new board within a few days.

The present members were sworn into office February 17, 1927, and have been a factor in port affairs and development since then. The board comprises F. R. McD. Russell, K.C., president; A. M. Pound, commissioner, and B. George Hansuld, commissioner.

There has been much conjecture as to who will be appointed to replace the present board if the government accepts the resignations. Many names have been mentioned, prominent among them being those of J. B. Thomson, S. McClay, Col. J. Leckie, Brig.-Gen. H. F. McDonald and Commander B. L. Johnson, D.S.O.

TEST FLIGHT FOR AIRMAIL ON SATURDAY

Alaska-Washington Airways of B.C. to Operate Trial Service

Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo Will Be Linked by Mail Plane

Permission to operate a trial airmail service between Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo to mark the opening of the Vancouver municipal airport next Saturday, has been secured by the Alaska-Washington Airways of British Columbia Limited, it was announced by H. B Olsen, president, to-day.

A special plane will be operated by the company to provide the service, Mr. Olsen stated. One round trip between Victoria and Vancouver and one round trip between Vancouver and Nanaimo will be made.

In a telegram received from P. T. Coolican, assistant deputy postmaster-general permission was granted to operate the following schedule for the day:

Leaving Vancouver 9.30 a.m.; arrive Victoria 10.15 a.m.

Leaving Victoria 10.30 a.m.; arrive Vancouver 11.15 a.m.

Leave Vancouver 3 p.m.; arrive Nanaimo 3.30 p.m.

Leave Nanaimo 3.45 p.m.; arrive Vancouver 4.15 p.m.

Authority to make the trial run was given as a special concession to mark the occasion and to impress on the public the advantages of speedy mail communication between the three cities, Mr. Olsen stated

SEEK REGLAR SERVICE

For several months the Alaska-Washington Airways of B.C. an all-Canadian company, has endeavored to promote action on the inauguration of an airmail service on the triangular route flown by the company. It is expected Saturday's test run will be a distinct step towards achieving this object.

Victorians were urged by Mr. Olsen to use the mail plane on Saturday, demonstrating the need which is felt for such a service here.

OFFICIAL TO TRAVEL

The head offices of the company have been advised that three officials of the postal department will fly with the special plane, surveying the possibilities of the service.

In negotiations for the airmail contract for the triangular run, the company has based its claim on the fact that in one year's operation, it has flown 500,000 miles safely, and has carried 11,000 passengers.

Pilots Gordon McKenzie and Pat Renahan, now flying in the service, are both capable fliers with over 5,000 hours to their credit.

In a statement to-day, Postmaster G. H. Gardiner stated all mail to be sent on the test flight must be in the letter box at the post office by 9.30 o'clock on Saturday morning. The letters must bear five-cent airmail stamps or an ordinary stamp of the same denomination along with the words "Special Airmail Test Flight."

School Trustees Throw Out Wilby Charge On Cadets

Move by Trustee V. Emery to Investigate Allegations on Abuses of System Meets Overwhelming Defeat; Hebden Resolution to Abolish Cadets Also Beaten; Reorganization of School Physical Training System Under Consideration Board Learns.

Practical blocking of action by the City School Board on charges brought by Major W. J. Wilby, former cadet instructor, with regard to abuses in the cadet system in Victoria public schools, resulted when the matter was brought up at last night's meeting of the board. Developments were:

1. Defeat of a motion by Trustee V. Emery to have a committee named to investigate the Wilby charges.

2. Defeat of a motion by Trustee G. A. A. Hebden to abolish the cadet system in the schools of Victoria.

3. Intimation by Municipal Inspector George Deane that reorganization of the physical training system in the schools would be a subject of discussion between himself and Major A. C. Hinton newly-appointed instructor.

Trustee Emery was the only one who voted for his own motion. Trustee Kenneth Ferguson, the seconder, did not vote.

Trustee Hebden and Trustee J. S. McMillan voted for the motion to abolish the cadet system. Chairman George Jay, Trustees Emery, J. C. Beckwith, Ferguson and W. C. Moresby, K.C., were in opposition, the latter on the grounds that he was not ready to discuss charges which were vague.

CHARGES NOT SPECIFIC

The concensus of opinion among board members appeared to be that allegations made by Major Wilby were not specific and that they concerned the military authorities more than the school board.

4,000 AFGHANS MOVE AGAINST INDIAN BORDER

British Troops in Peiwar District Prepare to Drive Tribesmen Back

Simla, India, Sept. 11.—A raiding force of 4,000 hostile tribesmen was reported to-day to be gathering for a heavy attack against British troops along the Afghan frontier in the region of Peiwar.

British airplanes reconnoitring there recently were heavily fired on, though suffering no casualties. Pickets of native troops and militia were involved in skirmishing or sniping activities, several being wounded.

The tribesmen in Peiwar are still receiving reinforcements. Their activities continue to cause uneasiness among British authorities.

BIGGEST ONES AGAIN GET AWAY FROM BEN BRYAN

Millionaire Broker Fails in Quest for Gold Tyee Club Button

But, Like Sir Thomas Lipton, He Is Coming Back After It

Ben B. Bryan, millionaire Wall Street broker and head of the international financial house of Logan and Bryan, returned to Victoria to-day after ten days at Campbell River, where he struggled in vain to win the gold button of the Tyee Club, which is the order of merit conferred on those who land a fifty pound, or larger, salmon.

TRYING FOR YEARS

I've been trying for years to get into the honored class and I'm coming back at it again," Mr. Bryan said. "The largest one I landed on this expedition was a thirty-six pounder. Of course I had a considerable number of strikes on my line from much bigger ones, but all the bigger ones got away, as usual.

"Sir Thomas Lipton, a native countryman of mine, continues to cross the ocean to try to capture and take back with him the yacht racing cup. I am like him in the way I keep crossing the continent to capture and take back from Campbell River a Tyee Club gold button."

Mr. Bryan wears in his coat lapel as his most treasured trinket the bronze button of the Tyee Club, which he gained at Campbell River a few years ago.

Canadian Prss

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Charged with theft of civic funds by conversion, John Morton, West Tenth Avenue, former superintendent of the Vancouver city scavenging department, who was arrested yesterday evening, appeared before Police Magistrate H. C. Shaw this forenoon and was remanded for one week.

His counsel, J. Edward Bird, asked that Prosecutor W. M. McKay supply him with particulars of the charge, and also requested that the court instruct the prosecution that it must confine its case to particulars in the charge. He did not wish the prosecution to have a "roving commission," he said.

NO ORDER MADE

The magistrate agreed defence counsel should have the particulars desired, but he declined to make any order binding the extent of the prosecution.

Major McKay agreed to furnish particulars, but protested against any limiting of the case of the prosecution.

Bail was set at $3,000 and the prisoner was released on bonds shortly after being booked at police headquarters.

Morton formerly was an alderman.

Warships Rush to Scene With Firemen and Supplies on Board

Canadian Press

Messina, Italy, Sept. 11.—A score of persons were reported to have lost their lives and fifty or more were injured in the simultaneous eruption of Stromboli volcano and an earthquake on Stromboli Island, one of the Aeolian group near here.

Two torpedo boats left Messina this afternoon for Stromboli, with the vice-prefect, the vice-Federal secretary and other authorities on board. The vessels are carrying food, tents and several companies of firemen.

CONE BLOWN OFF

When the eruption blew the volcano's cone high into the air, a great stream of lava descended on San Bartoli and other villages.

Four destroyers and torpedo boats, loaded with provisions, tents and medical supplies, with officials, were sent from Messina this morning to assist the victims.

Stromboli is a small island with a population of 2,600. It is situated near the steamship route from Messina to Naples. Not far away is the Italian penal island of Lipari, where political prisoners are held.

New Advisory Council On Immigration Urged

Canadian Press

Regina, Sept. 11.—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in annual convention here this forenoon, debated the question of inauguration.

In a report, the executive council recommended establishment of a Dominion advisory council on immigration to co-ordinate Federal and Provincial colonization activities.

Workers were being exploited in Europe and Great Britain, delegates thought, and many were brought to Canada by "alluring promises" of employment. It was not only unfair to the immigrants, but also to those unemployed in Canada, it was declared.

Some of these immigrants had applied for municipal relief before they had been in the country sixty days, it was stated. In one case in Vancouver an immigrant had received more than $300 from the city relief fund shortly after arriving from overseas.

COULD BUY TICKETS

"I think we could buy a whole lot of transportation for that much money and send this type of immigrant back," said Delegate Cusack of Vancouver.

In spite of repeated protests from the congress, immigrants were still coming into the country, it was stated, and some definite action should be taken.

The recommendation was adopted.

The report of the executive council covering labor representation on the Tariff Board, the fair wages bill, marine matters and other subjects of vital interest to the congress received the approval, but there was considerable discussion on the question of immigration.

The committee on constitutional law presented its report on a resolution urging five members should comprise the executive council, these taking the position of vice-president. At present there are three officers holding that rank. The committee recommended non-concurrence and the resolution was defeated.

President Tom Moore announced the election of officers would take place this afternoon.

BOARD SEEKS FEWER SCHOOL BOOK CHANGES

Victoria Board Will Carry Matter to Trustees' Convention

As a move to stop economic waste in the schools of the Province through the constant changing of textbooks, the Victoria School Board will bring a resolution before the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association this month seeking fewer alterations in the prescribed books.

The convention will be held at Vernon on September 22, 23 and 24. J. L. Beckwith was named as the board's delegate with Trustee G. A. A. Hebden as alternative.

Trustee Kenneth Ferguson introduced the resolution, declaring that in many instances students repeating their year in the higher grades were forced to buy as many as five new textbooks. Children in the same family were unable to hand down their books as they progressed in school, and many parents were feeling it a heavy burden.

He suggested a resolution be sent to the Department of Education, asking that fewer changes in the textbooks be made, and that teachers be given fewer options in the choice of books for their pupils.

Trustee Moresby thought it would be a good point to bring before the school trustees' convention and the motion was so amended.

Trustee Beckwith said the effect of the frequent changes had been sorely felt in the High School.

Borden's Speech to League Peace Plea

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations and the Dominion's wartime Prime Minister, opened the main debate of the League Assembly to-day with a speech which was an earnest and eager plea for reduction of armaments—for peace based not on force but on the will to peace.

Sir Robert, who spoke as chairman of the Assembly's political committee, found grounds for joy in what the League had accomplished since its birth in the tempest-scourged world of eleven years ago.

"In 1919," the Canadian delegate exclaimed, "I returned from Europe to my country with feelings of the most profound depression. It seemed to me men cried 'Peace, peace' when there was no peace."

Liberals Insist On Full Explanation of Bennett's $20,000,000 Fund Plans

Mr. King and His Followers in Commons Ask Many Questions for Information of Country on Government's Proposals to Reduce Unemployment

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—When the members of the House of Commons assembled for this afternoon's session they had before them a programme of discussion of unemployment relief, in the form of a sum of $20,000,000, proposed to be set aside for construction programmes and aids to municipalities and provinces. The whole of yesterday's sitting was given over to a prolonged cross-examination on the government's proposals by the opposition members and explanations from the Treasury benches.

With sittings both this afternoon and evening, it was said, as the members gathered that if this debate should be completed to-day it was possible the Government's tariff changes would be introduced in their parliamentary form.

MANY QUESTIONS

Yesterday Premier R. B. Bennett, as Minister of Finance and representative in the Commons of the Minister of Labor, who sits in the Senate, took it upon himself personally to guide his $20,000,000 resolution through the debate. His statements brought forth a long list of questions from opposition members who wanted to know how it was planned to spend the money.

Premier Bennett indicated there were now 117,000 persons out of work in Canada. He said there was a prospect that 177,000 would be unemployed during the coming winter

He expressed his opinion that the government proposals, if placed in effect, would materially reduce the number of jobless and possibly reduce the total by several thousand within a few weeks.

WHARVES AND BUILDINGS

In outlining how the government proposed to use the money, Parliament would be asked to supply, the Prime Minister said there were certain national undertakings which, ordinarily, would not be commenced this year. Such works as wharves and public buildings might be commenced at once. Municipalities wishing to borrow money for public works might be accommodated if the programmes were instituted promptly. All this he believed, would provide employment for hundreds of men and create a far better general economic situation throughout Canada.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, asked how the government proposed aiding factory workers, miners, transportation workers, lumbermen and fishermen?

Premier Bennett said the government had adopted one general scheme of which the present resolution was merely a part. There would be tariff changes to aid the manufacturing industry and efforts would be made to provide work by making it possible for Canadians to use Canadian products. He believed the manufacturing industry would be benefited by the tariff changes, and he had the assurance of several that the new measures would result in increased employment in the industries affected. He intended, when the bill was introduced, to indicate by whom the assurances he referred to had been given. He had been informed 25,000 additional workers would be employed in Canadian factories within a short time.

HIGHWAY PROPOSALS

The government would deal directly with the provinces in its relief programme affecting provinces or municipalities, through the granting of one-third of the total expended by municipalities forced to provide relief other than unemployment. It was proposed, he said, to assist the provinces in connecting up the links in the Transcanada Highway, but the government did not intend building a second coast-to-coast road. Assistance might be forthcoming from the Federal treasury, Premier Bennett said, to provinces for the maintenance of highways connecting provinces.

During the election campaign, interposed Mr. King, the Prime Minister had said a national highway would be built by the government. Did he still adhere to that?

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Mr. Bennett said there was no intention on the government's part to acquire land and build a Transcanada Highway through it. What would be done would be to take the uncompleted portions in British Columbia, Manitoba and Ontario and assist these provinces to finish the work. A substantial grant was proposed from the new fund to help in the construction.

Premier Bennett said that when grants toward highways were started by the Dominion they had laid the foundation of a standardized system of highways.

Replying to Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, Mr. Bennett declared the provinces would be asked to designate the main artery of travel.

Mr. King wanted to know if money given to the provincial governments would be handed over with any conditions. In the recent election, he thought money had been spent on highways by provinces.

Premier Bennett mentioned that so far as Ontario was concerned he had seen no evidence of expenditure of money in the way suggested.

Asked by Hon. Peter Heenan, Liberal, Kenora-Rainy River, if the Dominion Government would have any say in the selection of the route of the proposed highway in northern Ontario, the Prime Minister said the Dominion Government would have something to say, but it might be in a limited way.

PROTESTS DISCRIMINATION

Mr. Heenan, who was Minister of Labor in the King Government, requested an assurance from the Bennett Government that there would be no discrimination against unemployed men because of political affiliations. He declared there had been rotten politics played by the Ontario Government in the last election campaign, particularly in the northern part of the province.

He quoted from a telegram sent to the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario by J. J. Carrick, protesting against the "Conservative political machine" in Port Arthur. He (Mr. Heenan) never had seen such peonage as obtained in northern Ontario during the last election campaign. Men on the provincial government payroll were asked before they went in to vote "if they still desired to work for the Ontario Government." They were paid twenty-five cents an hour and board and worked ten hours a day.

"I am prepared to stay here until Christmas to see that those men get a square deal," said Mr. Heenan.

If the Dominion was giving grants of money to a province that kept its men in slavery, Mr. Heenan declared, the Dominion should see that money was distributed in fair wages.

MUNICIPAL ROADS

John Vallance, Liberal, South Battleford, asked if municipalities would receive assistance from the fund for the construction of municipal roads.

Mr. Bennett said requests would come through Provincial Governments.

The Government had considered the matter of compensation to provinces that had already paid for and completed their part of the National Highway.

Nothing in the way of a subsidy to railways for new construction was contemplated the Premier said. It was possible money from the fund might be used in order to hasten the construction of railway lines now contemplated.

PEACE RIVER RAILWAY

To Hon. Ian Mackenzie the Prime Minister said that as Parliament would be reconvening shortly after the new year, whatever action might be deemed necessary with respect to the Peace River railway outlet would be taken then.

COAL AND OIL

Another questioner drew attention to the conversion by the Canadian National Railways of their coal-burning locomotives to oil burners and asked that Mr. Bennett make representations to the management to diminish this.

Such a course would be improper, the Prime Minister said, and he did not desire to interfere with the management of the railway, however.

He had represented to the management that it would be desirable to use Canadian coal where feasible. Proposals had been submitted to the Government asking that the C.N.R. use Canadian coal on its lines as far west as Port William. This was engaging the Government's attention, he said.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS

Level railway crossings were a fruitful source of danger in Canada, said the Prime Minister. There was now a grade crossing fund which was administered by the Board of Railway Commissioners. It might be found advisable to supplement that fund. It would rest with the Board of Railway Commissioners to determine the amount, if any, which would be contributed by the Government for this work.

"How is it proposed to allocate the amount?" asked J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre.

"It is not proposed to allocate it by this measure," replied Mr. Bennett. The administration of the act was to be under the control of the Department of Labor, but the provinces themselves would determine the extent of their needs.

The Minister of Labor and the Governor-in-Council, Mr. Bennett replied.

Answering Hon. Peter Heenan, Mr. Bennett said that so far as the Dominion would extend its operations with the provinces, the order-in-council regarding fair wages and an eight-hour day would prevail. Those conditions of labor would neither be amended nor repealed.

MARKETING PLANS

T. F. Donnelly, Liberal, Willow Bunch, inquired if assistance was proposed toward marketing of produce.

Premier Bennett answered there was a clause for assistance toward defraying the cost of marketing the produce of land, sea and mine.

The railway companies, the Prime Minister told F. W. Gershaw, Liberal, Medicine Hat, had been asked for a list of works that could be reasonably undertaken. The measure of assistance extended to them would depend on the cost involved.

NOT A CURE

"Work, not charity," and "labor, not a dole," would be the guiding influence in the government's fight to alleviate unemployment, Premier Bennett said. The money he would ask Parliament to vote would be spent in accordance with the recommendations of the Employment Service Council of Canada, which met in Ottawa recently. After listing the twelve recommendations, the Prime Minister said the proposal before the House was in the nature of a palliative, not a cure. He made no promise that through it unemployment would be ended, but he did believe it would alleviate the emergent situation.

The fund of $20,000,000, Mr. Bennett said, would be used for such purposes and on such conditions as were approved by the Governor-General-in-Council. This was the practice followed in the case of appropriations for unemployment relief by previous parliaments.

"It is not proposed," said Mr. Bennett, "that the Dominion Government should deal with these problems directly. Conditions of unemployment are primarily provincial and municipal problems."

There were shouts and laughter from the Liberals at this statement.

The Premier said that when local conditions became general and serious they became national problems. The unemployment problem had now become a national problem, he said.

FIGURES OF UNEMPLOYMENT

In estimating the unemployed at present at 117,000, with a prospect of the number increasing to 177,000 during the winter, Premier Bennett gave figures by provinces as follows:

British Columbia—Present unemployed 7,692; estimated unemployed in winter 14,700.

Alberta—Present unemployed 5,156; estimated unemployed in winter 5,650.

Manitoba—Present unemployed 6,950; estimated unemployed in winter 9,600.

New Brunswick—Present unemployed 500; estimated unemployed in winter 2,530.

The Premier did not mention Prince Edward Island

In answer to a question, Mr. Bennett stated the figures had been supplied in all cases either by the Provincial Governments or by the provincial unemployment offices operated in connection with the Employment Service of Canada. There were some estimates, he said, compiled by trade unions and other organizations in close touch with the situation which placed the number as high as 200,000. The figures he had given did not include part-time employees.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES THROW OUT WILBY CHARGES ON CADETS

Trustee Emery maintained that it was a matter of vital interest to the school board, as "one of the board's employees had charge of corps funds which had been allowed to accumulate."

The discussion was entered into by all members of the board.

At the opening of the meeting Trustee Hebden asked for suspension of the order of business to introduce his resolution to discontinue the cadet system and notify the authorities accordingly. Trustee Moresby seconded to bring the resolution before the meeting.

Trustee Hebden, after outlining the history of the development of the cadet system, declared it appeared the system had become gradually one for physical training, and as a ground for training militia officers had outlived its usefulness.

NOT PREPARED

Trustee Moresby said he was not prepared to take the stand that the cadet system should be abolished. He wished to examine further the letter of Major Wilby. After perusal of it he found the charges on the so-called "abuses" to be very vague and indefinite. He felt it would be unwise for the board to take action until more was learned. While there were matters which might concern the board, the whole thing concerned the military authorities.

"I can't help but think that the resolution introduced by Trustee Hebden is a move to sidetrack the Wilby charges," declared Trustee Emery. "I see nothing vague in the charges. I know for a fact that no accounting of corps funds has been made and that an employee of the board has allowed the funds to accumulate."

FAVOR SYSTEM

Declaring he would vote against the Hebden motion, Trustee Beckwith said he believed a properly conducted cadet corps was to the advantage of the boys. Trustee Ferguson was in accord with this opinion, suggesting the new physical instructor might be asked for his views on changing the training system.

In expressing his intention to vote for the resolution, Trustee McMillan said he had opposed cadet instruction on the election platform and would not change his views. Moreover he was opposed to militarism. He referred to cases which he had heard of cadets painting bayonets red and throwing bombs as part of their training. Discipline and obedience could be taught in a different manner, he thought.

PRAISES TRAINING

Having being trained as a cadet under Major Wilby himself, Trustee Emery said he knew the training was good when conducted on proper lines. He praised the manner in which Major Wilby had handled Central School corps and said he would oppose the motion.

In reply, Trustee Hebden said he also had received benefit from cadet training, but felt that the system was not being carried out as originally planned and therefore could be dispensed with.

Trustee Moresby then referred to the Wilby letter and asked an explanation from Municipal Inspector Deane of certain allegations involving the inspector in connection with the resignation of Major Wilby. Discussion was barred on that point as the Wilby letter was not in debate.

Trustee Moreby then asked the inspector just what irregularities existed in the cadet system, if any, that could be corrected by the inspector or had been corrected by him.

EXAMINED CHARGES

"No direct charges have been brought against any school. Charges of compulsory enrolment and under age enrolment were made at one time and I took steps to remedy this by notifying principals that they should call the attention of their pupils to the fact that enrolment was not compulsory. As an official of the Department of Education I have no responsibility in connection with the cadet corps," Mr. Deane said.

Trustee Ferguson said he understood local militia authorities would welcome reorganization of the cadets along other lines as they did not regard the corps as a recruiting ground for the militia.

The motion then went to a vote and was lost.

Chairman Jay, after the vote, recorded himself in the negative, saying he had seen the values of cadet training and would not favor its abolishment.

When the Wilby letter was brought up for consideration, Trustee Emery made his motion for appointment of a committee to investigate the charges.

"This board, as an administrative and not a judicial body, has no power to deal with them," said Trustee Hebden.

CORPS FUNDS

"The matter of corps funds affects the board," replied Trustee Emery.

Trustee Morseby—The charges are indefinite. I will vote against the motion.

Trustee McMillan—I feel the same way. The municipal inspector is the only one mentioned, and I have confidence in him.

Chairman Jay suggested Major Wilby would be well advised to let the matter drop. The statement in the letter regarding his resignation was in the nature of a blind, he said.

Trustee Ferguson repeated his suggestion that the new physical instructor be asked for ideas for reorganization, and was informed by the municipal inspector that the matter was being dealth with.

Trustee Emery—I still maintain a committee is necessary.

NOT "IMPLORED"

In explanation of his connection with Major Wilby's resignation, Mr. Deane stated Major Wilby had come to him with the resignation, presumably for advice, and he had advised the rewording of it in the interests of Major Wilby himself and the situation generally. He did not see by what flight of imagination Major Wilby could have construed his attitude to be one of "imploring" a change in the wording of the resignation.

Following this he had notified principals in regard to instructing pupils about the optional nature of cadet enrolment.

"I do not think there is a cadet instructor on our staff who would exploit the pupils for his own private gain, and that includes Major Wilby himself," declared the inspector.

After Trustee Beckwith again stated he would like to hear specific charges made, the vote was put and lost by five votes to one.

In moving his motion for the abolition of the cadet system, Trustee Hebden said:

"In addition to what I have already said in my notice of motion I desire to add that in presenting this resolution I do so not in an effort to force public opinion but rather to express it as I understand it. With your permission I should like to include reference to a few historical facts concerning the cadet movement.

"On the word of Col. Ralston the former Minister of National Defence, we learn that there has been provision for cadet training in the public schools of Canada ever since 1862. In 1909 the movement received considerable impetus. Records reveal the fact that there then existed a dearth of competent officers for the militia and this fact caused the Department of National Defence considerable anxiety. Sir Frederick Borden, then Minister, interviewed Lord Strathcona in London on the subject and subsequently received an offer from the aged High Commissioner to donate $250,000 to be invested to yield $10,000 annually for the carrying on of military drill and physical training in the public schools. That Lord Strathcona placed an emphasis on military drill cannot be denied, for in his letter of March 13, 1909, to Sir Frederick, he said, 'While I attach the highest importance to the advantages of physical training and elementary drill for all children of both sexes I am particularly anxious that the special value of military drill, including rifle shooting for boys capable of using rifles should be constantly borne in mind.' The generosity of Lord Strathcona was generally appreciated. Sir Wilfred Laurier, supported by Mr., later Sir R. L. Borden, moved on March 24, 1909, that the thanks of the House of Commons and the people of Canada be tendered to Lord Strathcona for his letter to the Minister of Militia just communicated to the house. Carried.

"It is significant that although Lord Strathcona placed an emphasis on military drill he suggested that the fund established by him should be designated for 'The encouragement of Physical and Military Training in the Public Schools.' The name finally selected was as above but the words, 'The Strathcona Trust for' were tacked on in front. It may be unimportant but one wonders if it was by mere accident that the sequence of the words 'physical and military' were not reversed.

FINANCED BY DEPARTMENT

"Just how wide the powers of the trustees of the Strathcona Trust are I have been unable to determine, but it seems that the Department of Militia undertook to finance the military training or cadet work in the schools while the Trust devoted its attention toward physical training, thus dividing the two phases of the work. Allowing this assumption to be correct—and the fact that Parliament votes $500,000 annually for cadet services, seems to support it—I contend that we can safely discuss the cadet issue, so far as it affects the schools of this city, without involving in any strife with the Strathcona Trust. If I may be permitted to interject an opinion, I believe that it is in this phase of the work so generously supported by Lord Strathcona that will continue to bring honor to his name.

"As a matter of immediate concern, so far as this board is concerned, is the official attitude of this province toward cadet work. Members of this Board will recall that in 1925 when the survey of the schools system was conducted the commissioners were instructed by the Minister and Superintendent of Education to 'hew to the line' in their investigations. Cadet work was not touched upon, although some references to military tendencies were made. This attitude of the commissioners may be accounted for in one of two ways. Either they felt that the subject was too controversial to discuss or else they may have felt it was generally understood in this province that the cadet movement existed in our schools only because it contained within itself some valuable elements from a physical training point of view. Further, may I emphasize the fact that when the Province of British Columbia assigned to its school boards the responsibilities of the inclusion or exclusion of cadet work it did so in section 137 which deals with physical education. The official attitude of the province then can be understood to be this. Cadet work in British Columbia is to be considered as a type of physical training to be taught or excluded at the discretion of the Boards concerned.

"It is not my intention to attack the movement as jingoistic because I realize that the real leaders among our military men hold a very modified conception of cadet work, its place and function in our schools to that commonly held a generation ago. Occasionally abuses such as the appointment of batmen to cadet officers and the forming of exclusive clubs or messes for boys who consider themselves superior to ordinary student government have been discovered, but it is only fair to state that these abuses are not officially condoned by cadet inspectors. In recent years, I am told, the work of the cadets has become increasingly that of physical training, with a noted abatement in the use of rifles and uniforms. It has been said by some officers of unquestioned character and ability that the cadet movement as a practical measure toward building up an army is useless.

MILITARY PAGEANTRY

"Local conditions seem to have borne this observation out, for it will be remembered that the local militia units were able to enlist members only after a great deal of hard and intelligent work, in spite of the fact that cadet work was conducted in nearly all our schools for years. There are boys who look forward to the time when they can participate in military pageantry but it seems that they have ample opportunity to follow this inclination when they finish school and become old enough to be eligible for membership in any of the several fine units operating here.

"Here then is the issue—if the cadet movement has become unpopular, has failed in its primary object of training militia officers, and the military authorities have voluntarily recognized the trend of public opinion away from military drill in the schools and have gradually modified their programme to keep in line with public opinion until they have virtually traversed their domain and have entered upon a sphere of education quite properly held to be the duty and responsibility of this Board to administer. (Physical training without military drill, it is obvious that the necessity for dual control has gone. It should be abolished and along with it the per capita instructional fees, the corps funds and the nasty suggestion that we are using our schools as recruiting grounds.

"I understand that a copy of the suggested work to be undertaken by A. C. Hinton, our newly appointed physical instructor, has been sent to each trustee. During a discussion of this matter I asked Professor Frank Halbus, Principal of the Physical Training Department, College of Education, University of Toronto, for an opinion of the outline and when the matter comes up I shall be free to table it, for the consideration of the Board.

"I feel very strongly on this matter. The cadet movement appears to have outlived its usefulness and the replacing of it by a well balanced physical training course in which all girls and boys will receive some benefit will be a progressive step. The administration should be wholly in the hands of this Board, subject only to regulations of the Department of Education and the voters of this city.

Saskatoon Finds B.C. Peaches Best; Fruit Imports Heavy

Saskatoon, Sept. 11.—After a few cold days the weather has now turned warm again. Harvesting operations have been progressing rapidly and a large share of the crop is already threshed. A rather severe frost was experienced over most of this district last week-end, but it did not do much damage otherwise than perhaps cut down the yield of some late maturing potatoes.

The market has got over the flurry caused by the new fruit tariff regulations, and prices are practically at the same level as before. The booking of a large number of Washington cars show that the trade has not been greatly disrupted. Car arrivals for the past week were quite large, and a good movement of fruit is being experienced. Apples are moving in a steady, though not large, volume at steady prices. Pears are in heavy supply. Washington Bartletts still constitute the bulk of the movement.

British Columbia peaches have had the edge on the imported as regards flavor this season, but the trade is handling as much, if not more, of the imported. During the past week two cars of California Lovell peaches arrived here.

Washington Tragedy plums are still selling against the British Columbia on this market, and the Italian prune business seems to be about equally divided, with very little to choose between the two as regards quality, condition or price.

The first car of Ontario plums and grapes arrived this week, and proved to be of very fair quality. The greengage plums, in eleven-quart baskets are selling for $1.35. A car of Manitoba cucumbers also arrived, and is selling for 2 1-2 cents per pound.

Date Set For Inquiry Into Watt Dismissal

September 22 has been set as the date for inquiry into the dismissal of Norman Watt, former government agent at Prince Rupert. The investigation will be conducted by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald of the B.C. Supreme Court. The investigation follows charges by T. D. Pattullo, leader of the opposition that Mr. Watt was unfairly treated when Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, dismissed him when on a visit to Prince Rupert.

PROGRESS ON NAVAL TREATY DECLARED SLOW

As Yet Italy and France Only Have Experts at Work

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Naval disarmament negotiations between Italy and France are still in the "expert" stage in the margin of the Geneva Conference. The chiefs of the delegations of the two countries—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi has departed—have not been in contact on this phase of the negotiations, according to well-informed circles.

The French and Italian experts, Rene Massigle and Augusto Rosso, have had some counsel from R. L. Grague, British naval adviser, and their talks are expected to continue for some time.

The fact theat delicate political considerations must be handled concurrently with naval problems has made it appear probable the day for a definite announcement of an agreement is some time off.

In both French and Italian quarters the belief is expressed that an agreement can be reached, but the proviso appears that perhaps only "definite progress" may be reported when the Preparatory Disarmament Commission meets in November.

WEEKLY PAPERS ELECT OFFICERS

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 11.—Election of officers featured the concluding session here yesterday of the eleventh annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Malcolm Macbeth of Milverton, Ont., was chosen president, succeeding Hugh Savage of Duncan, B.C. S. J. Doman, Alameda, Sask., and A. M. Marsh, Amherstburg, Ont., were chosen first and second vice-presidents respectively. E. Roy Sayles, Renfrew, Ont., was re-elected managing director and secretary-treasurer.

R. E. White, Kamloops, and C. A. Barber, Chilliwack, were elected British Columbia directors.

U.S. IMMIGRATION LAWS ARE SOON TO BE TIGHTENED

Washington, Sept. 11.—The State Department announced yesterday that in carrying out President Hoover's wishes for more strict application of the immigration laws to reduce unemployment, conferences would be held at Winnipeg and Vancouver in addition to three consular conferences overseas.

A conference at London, September 22 and 23, will draw the consular officers in England, Ireland and nearby points on the Continent of Europe. Officers from Europe will meet at Stuttgart, Germany, September 26 and 27, and at Warsaw October 1 and 2.

Under the President's plan, immigrants to the United States must show they will not become public charges. At present aliens entering the country with positions previously contracted for are denied entry under the alien contract labor law.

STEPS EXPECTED

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Announcement from Washington that more stringent measures are in contemplation in regard to migration to the United States was received here without any great degree of surprise. Unemployment in the country to the south has frequently been stated to be considerably worse than in Canada and it was expected steps would be taken to curtail the movement into that country.

TWO MOTORISTS KILLED

Republic, Wash., Sept. 11.—Two men were killed and a third was possibly fatally injured when their automobile, said to have been traveling at terrific speed, plunged through a bridge railing seven miles northeast of here yesterday.

The men, employees of a rodeo concession, were returning from Grand Forks, B.C. The railing of the bridge was torn away for twenty feet and the automobile sailed thirty feet up the hillside and rolled back into the canyon.

THE McLEAN CASE

THE RELEASE OF THE CONFIDENCE man who victimized a California man out of $10,000 in this city on condition that he restore $7,500 of the amount to his victim is a serious reflection upon the administration of justice in Victoria, and it is surprising that the Attorney-General's department should have countenanced it.

Magistrate Jay properly expressed his strong disapproval of the proceeding, which made his court by implication an agency for the encouragement of offences of this kind rather than the deterrent for the protection of the public it should be. Whether the informant was ready to withdraw the case on the receipt of $7,500 of the money stolen from him or not is a matter of minor consideration against the larger issue of the enforcement of the law, which is devised in the public interest, not the sole interest of either the prisoner or his victim.

If the culprit voluntarily offered to make restitution, no doubt the magistrate would have taken his attitude into consideration in imposing punishment, if he were found guilty, but the case should have been proceeded with just the same. If restitution was possible only as the result of a bargain for the withdrawal of the charge, there was an even stronger reason for proceeding with the case.

The transaction, of course, is the worst possible advertisement for our administration of justice and a precedent which may gravely endanger the public interest. If confidence sharks get the impression that they can victimize people in this city and, if caught, escape punishment by restoring a part of the money they steal, Victoria soon will be over-run with them. And we may be sure that the glib individual who has just purchased his freedom by this means will tell his story with much gusto to an interested underworld. This city has an excellent police force, but it is unfair to expect it adequately to protect the public against criminals of this kind in the face of the invitation to them which was implied in the release of McLean yesterday.

ARGENTINA IN A TURMOIL

CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT IN the Argentine Republic was believed by most outsiders to have reached a stage where presidents could be changed without armed revolution. Recent events there, however, show that the hair-trigger methods so popular in other parts of Latin-America still prevail there. Buenos Aires, the third American city in population, has furnished the setting for a first-class revolution, with its famous boulevards and magnificent buildings within the range of revolutionary bullets. Not a few citizens have been killed and hundreds are undergoing hospital treatment.

It is not quite clear from this distance what is behind the insurrection that has resulted in the overthrow of the government headed by Dr. Hipolito Irigoyen. It is possible that outside influences have been at work, but it is not unlikely that in some measure the revolt may be accounted for by the existing economic condition throughout the world. Argentine wheat and meat prices have reached a low ebb in the last twelve months and many of the United States packing concerns have reduced their staffs very considerably, not a few of them finding it necessary to transfer their American assistants back home.

While it may be true of most South American countries that political power is mainly a matter of armed conflict between selfish rival juntas often prompted by foreign capital, the Argentine Republic was believed to have reached a higher plane. Admittedly, between 1816 and 1852 the country went through a period of anarchy, but ever since the constitution came into being in May of the following year, the republic has experienced nothing more than incipient forms of disturbance, the modifications of the constitution in 1860, 1866 and 1898 having been accompanied by nothing of a serious nature.

Buenos Aires, with a population of nearly 2,500,000, and regarded as one of the most beautiful and romantic cities in the world, must present an extraordinary spectacle under martial law, with fighting in the streets and government changed by bullets instead of ballots. Whether it will be satisfied with this revolution or, like Mexico after Diaz, stage a series of them, only time can tell. Meanwhile, however, the situation is an interesting one in view of the position which Argentina has occupied among the growing nations of the world, and particularly in view of the large investments of British, United States and German capital there.

POLITICS AT THE FAIR

"Confidence that the election of the Conservative party to power at Ottawa would result beneficially for the farmers of British Columbia was expressed by Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General for British Columbia, in officially opening the Metchosin District Fair at Luxton yesterday afternoon." — The Colonist's report of Mr. Pooley's remarks.

IT WAS ALL RIGHT FOR MR. DICKIE TO go into Esquimalt last year and tell the faithful at a Conservative picnic there that when his party got into power at Ottawa "it might be necessary to jettison otherwise valuable cargo" to make room for those who had borne the "burden and heat of the day" while in opposition. That was a political gathering. But for Mr. Pooley, apparently considering himself and the government of which he is a member strong in his own bailiwick, to go to Luxton and make a political speech at an agricultural fair is not only bad taste, but a course not expected of a minister of the crown.

Mr. Pooley may think what he likes about what the change of government at Ottawa will produce; but he should realize that many of the good folk of the Metchosin district, not a few of them exhibitors at the exhibition he opened yesterday, do not agree with him at all. Nor, we presume, did any who attended the fair, whether Liberal or Conservative, go to the opening ceremonies for the purpose of hearing political remarks from the Attorney-General.

A MESSAGE OF GOOD CHEER

THE CANADIAN PEOPLE HAD SO much gloom served up to them by some of our politicians during the recent election campaign that after reading Mr. E. W. Beatty's prediction of better times ahead they probably will feel in a much more comfortable frame of mind. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's president, of course, has no occasion either to paint the lily or put on indigo spectacles for political effect. He presides over the largest private enterprise in Canada and the very nature of its business demands that he stick to facts as he sees them at all times. He has had to admit in the last few months that his company was not doing as much business as it was doing in the corresponding period a year previous; but he did not exaggerate this condition and try to make the people of Canada believe this country alone was experiencing a depression. He knew, as everybody else knew, that it was part of a world condition—and we shall probably feel the effects of it for a few more months.

It was Mr. Beatty who in 1925 and 1926 took many flings at that element in this country which seemed obsessed with the idea that it was going to the bow-wows, that unless it were subjected to treatment with a certain formula which they alone could prescribe, nothing on earth would save Canada from economic disaster. These professional pessimists were past praying for. Not all of Mr. Beatty's encouraging statements of that time, statements which enabled him "to gauge the present and estimate the future," had the least effect upon them. Nothing the bankers or the commercial leaders of the Dominion could say—and they all agreed with Mr. Beatty that business was continuing on the up grade, events proving the soundness of these statements—would change their views. Perhaps, however, they have learned their lesson and in future will take more stock in what men such as the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company say about business conditions and prospects.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

UNEXPECTED PERHAPS
The Regina Leader-Post

The odd feature about the repercussion from New Zealand over Canada's tariff attitude toward that country is that it is a Canadian manufacturing industry—the motor trade—that has been hit. Now the bulk of manufacturers are supposed to be traditional high tariff men but in this case a move toward a tariff increase by Canada has had the effect of jolting a substantial manufacturing industry in Canada. This may be an eye-opener to some people.

That all Conservatives, even manufacturers, do not approve of the high tariff demands of the controlling section of the Conservative party, is evidenced by a letter from a Montreal Conservative, J. T. McCall, who is in the iron and steel business and who has written to the Montreal Gazette: "I sincerely hope that the Conservative Government will not follow the advice of certain extreme protectionists and raise the tariff without careful investigation The result would simply be that prices would be raised on all these commodities without increasing the volume of business."

Still, if the argument used during the election that the way to create employment in Canada is to give Canadian industry protection against allcomers is true, why should the tariff not be raised as promised by Mr. Bennett in order that the country may be made more prosperous?

THWARTING THE DRY LAW
The New York Times

The Fifteenth Amendment runs against States. The States against which it was directed have found means lawfully to make it null and void. The Eighteenth Amendment runs against individuals. The State has no way of getting around it legally. Therefore the individual finds his own remedy.

VAGARIES OF LANGUAGE
The New York Herald-Tribune

Some of the French who worship their language as though it were a dead god have been protesting because the French Academy has accepted the alien word interviewer: "to interview," foreign spelling and all. But to a mere foreigner it seems like one of the minor infamies of the barbarian invasion of the French language, and the fact that it has been accepted by the academy can never, to an Anglo-Saxon, have the sacred meaning attached to the rite by a Gaul. To us it is the mob which makes language. What the mob accepts to-day the erudite may be counted upon to pick up to-morrow and dignify in the dictionaries.

Loose Ends

'Something tragic happens out our way—when Mr. Whiffleton goes in for diet—and gives away is brown suit too soon.

By H. B. W.

ANOTHER OF those neighborhood tragedies which make life so uncertain and so interesting out our way has just occurred, and if you are in a melancholy humor, I think, perhaps, it will cheer you up to hear of this kindred misery. Well then, to understand the full significance of the matter you must know that Mr. Whiffleton, who lives out our way, is a large man; in a physical sense, I mean, for in truth I could not say so much for his intellect. Indeed, he has been growing larger every year until last fall he found that he could not wear any of his clothes.

IN VAIN Mrs. Whiffleton inserted discreet and cunning strips of various colors into the back of Mr. Whiffleton's vests, surreptitiously moved the buttons over on his coats, and clipped more or less conspicious v-shaped fragments into the back of his trousers. After a while even the resources of Mrs. Whiffleton were at an end and still Mr. Whiffleton continued to expand. By this spring Mr. Whiffleton finally faced the cold fact that he would have to get an entirely new wardrobe, and as he had not bought any new clothes for a full ten years to my knowledge, the prospect was alarming.

FOR WEEKS Mr. Whiffleton pondered and vexed his soul and by the time he finally made up his mind to buy some new clothes it was almost too late. That is to say, he had expanded so much that he could scarcely make himself decent for the journey into town to the clothing store. What transpired in the clothing store we do not know, but it must have been impressive, for it lasted two hours Then Mr. Whiffleton emerged in a grey tweed suit, with checks so large that even the ample south view of Mr. Whiffleton was not quite sufficient to display two full checks, and this despite the fact that the suit had been purposely chosen three sizes too big against the potential expansion of the next ten years.

UNDER MR. WHIFFLETON'S arm was a paper bundle in which he carried that brown Harris tweed suit beyond which he had expanded, and which still bore the mute evidence of Mrs. Whiffleton's splendid needlework. For some days Mr. Whiffleton pondered what he would do with his discarded brown Harris tweed, for he had loved that suit for ten years and could not bear to part with it. Finally, in a great burst of neighborliness he gave it to George Pudbury (whom it fitted after Mrs. Pudbury had taken out the v-shaped insertions as carefully as Mrs. Whiffleton had put them in) instead of paying Mr. Pudbury in cash for ploughing his two acres of potato land.

IT WAS just after Mr. Pudbury had appeared in public, resplendant in Mr. Whiffleton's brown Harris tweed, that Mr. Whiffleton, not feeling so well, went to see his doctor, and the tragic tale, which I have been trying to unfold, began to unfold itself. Well the doctor informed Mr. Whiffleton that if he continued to expand he would shortly find himself and his new grey checked suit under the rich soil of Saanich from which he has wrung a living these many years. This startled Mr. Whiffleton into a perfect orgy of self-torture. He gave up eating a heavy supper before retiring at night. He gave up the habit of eating two dinners every day. He gave up drinking a quart or two of his own home-made beer every afternoon. He gave up potatoes for breakfast and almost abandoned white bread altogether. He gave up so much, indeed, and began to look so miserable that we all thought he would have been wiser to go on the old way and get it all over with as quickly as possible. We did not know that a fate even worse than this was in store for poor Mr. Whiffleton.

THE EFFECT of diet on Mr. Whiffleton was truly miraculous. His jowls gave way to big wrinkles at the side of his face, and the great rolls at the back of his skull shrank into a loose epidermis which made you feel you could pick him up by the neck as you would a puppy. And the tremendous expanse of Mr. Whiffleton's middle, which once almost filled the grey checked suit three sizes too big, began to subside by inches at a time.

SOON MR. WHIFFLETON'S doctor pronounced him sound in health once more and likely to live to ripe old age. This, you would have thought, should have restored Mr. Whiffleton to his old happiness but, alas, it only complicated his problem. For by the first of August he had shrunk so much that his grey checked suit, once three sizes too big, is now at least six, and it hangs about Mr. Whiffleton, flapping in the wind, as around a scarecrow. And while Mrs. Whiffleton could insert v-shaped pieces into the old Harris tweed, her skull was not equal to taking v-shaped pieces out of the grey check. True, she made a gallant attempt, and actually removed considerable areas of cloth, but the effect was hardly satisfactory, since it was not symmetrical and caused the coat to hang down at one side and up at the other, and made the buttons of the vest occur just over Mr. Whiffleton's heart, instead of down the middle.

BUT THE supreme irony of the whole business was not in the disaster of the grey check. The supreme tragedy of this unhappy man was that he had given away the Harris tweed which, by this time, would have fitted him perfectly. And to add insult to injury, Mr. Pudbury invariably appears in the brown Harris tweed at the whist drive down at the community hall every Friday night, where Mr. Whiffleton is a faithful player. Life, we feel out our way, holds few more exquisite sights than that of Mr. Whiffleton, in his lop-sided grey check, with one side lower than the other and the single row of buttons down his heart, watching Mr. Pudbury (smartly clad in the brown Harris tweed) with the hungry and resentful look of a man betrayed. We are even beginning to fear that poor Mr. Whiffleton, in desperation, may sacrifice himself utterly, go back to his old diet and expand himself once more into the grey check.

NEW HOME HAS SPLENDID VIEW

Residence on Lansdowne Rd. for Duncan D. McTavish Nears Completion

Commanding one of the finest views in the city and situated in a half acre of ground surrounded by partiarchal oaks, a magnificent new home is now nearing completion on the corner of Foul Bay and Lansdowne Roads for Duncan D. McTavish, well-known customs broker and bulb expert of Victoria.

Of unique and individual design the new house has attracted widespread attraction from many people while it has been building. Several picturesque gables and quaint leaded casement windows make the exterior of the house most attractive. It is finished in cream stucco and deep green lathwork with a red roof so shingled to give it a tiled effect. A tiny balcony opening from one of the upstairs bedrooms lends a further note of distinctiveness to the house. The front entrance has double storm doors, while the inside door has a design that is something new and entirely different in the way of front door design. The outer doors are done in green to match the woodwork on the exterior.

There are seven rooms and a spacious hall in the new home, the interior of which was largely designed by Mrs McTavish, and was built under her personal supervision. F. Wood was the architect and also the builder, and he and one other carpenter have built the house up in four months. From the front windows at night can be seen four lighthouses twinkling their warnings to passing mariners, while on clear days a majestic view of the snow-capped Olympics is obtainable. Immediately below the house are meadow lands, and to the northeast the Uplands golf course.

HER GRATITUDE "IS UNBOUNDED"

Vancouver Woman Says She "Could Write a Book About New Treatment"

"I could write a book about the wonderful results I've gotten from Sargon," recently stated Mrs. E. H. Johnson, 343 51st Ave., E., Vancouver, who is a prominent member of the South Hill Baptist Church. "As I told the children the other day—dear girls, five of them—they have a new mother now and it certainly is a blessing to be back in good health again."

"Busily engaged in raising a large family and always a hard worker, I've gone down hill fast for the past four years. Other women know what it means to get that terrible buzzing in the ears, the sudden pressure of the blood rushing to the head, and weakening pains all through the back. I'd suffered since girlhood with chronic constipation sometimes going as much as five days with no bowel movement, and my liver became so disordered, my complexion was as yellow as parchment. I felt so utterly miserable I didn't even want my dear children around and could hardly speak a civil word to anyone.

"How can I praise Sargon enough? It has been like pure gold to me. People who see me now, on the go cheerfully at my work, wonder what has given me such great strength again and I just feel so brimful of energy, my husband has to keep after me not to overdo. My eyes sparkle, where they were dull before; my complexion is clear and vivid again, and I look and feel like a new person.

"I also used the Sargon Soft Mass Pills and they have helped more in getting me regulated than any laxative I ever took in my life. Their gentle, natural action was a pleasant surprise and for the first time in years, I'm no longer troubled with constipation. My husband is now taking this wonderful treatment and nothing can express the gratitude I feel for what it has meant to us both."

The Sargon man is at the Owl Drug Store, corner of Fort and Douglas Streets, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this celebrated new scientific product.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Company; in Esquimalt from Pulmer's Drug Store; in Oak Bay from Charles Hudson. (Advt.)

Metchosin Farmers Held Successful Fair At Luxton

Complete Results of Awards in Various Sections Are Announced

Special to The Times

One of the most successful fairs in the history of the Metchosin Farmers' Institute was held at Luxton Hall yesterday afternoon and evening. Of unusual excellence were the exhibits in the garden produce, and an entry list of an exceptionally large number of registered and grade sheep. A new innovation this year was the sale of sheep, arranged by the Metchosin Sheep Breeders' Association, T. McPherson acting as auctioneer.

Quite a number of rams and breeding ewes were disposed of at good prices.

In the absence of Premier Tolmie, Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General and member for Esquimalt district, declared the fair open, and congratulated the members of the institute on the excellence of their exhibits, mentioning especially the honey, roots and sheep. The marketing of produce was discussed by Mr. Pooley, who stated the government were always eager to help in bettering marketing facilities, especially of agricultural products.

NEW ROAD

With reference to the new proposed road direct from the Metchosin Farmers' Institute property to the main road, Mr. Pooley stated he would do all in his power to have this work done before fire-hazard time next summer, especially was it essential, he stated, to have the brush cleared away.

C. E. Whitney-Griffith, president of the institute, spoke of the splendid co-operation that he had received from all committees.

Mayor Anscomb extended greetings from the city of Victoria, and spoke of the excellence of the products exhibited. The city water system was discussed at length by Mayor Anscomb, and the possibility of extending same to outlying districts would be very desirable, but at the present time the cost of further extension was costly.

Greetings from Saanich were extended by Reeve William Crouch, who also spoke of the high standard of exhibits. Major M. Kirkpatrick Crockett and Major Cuthbert Holmes of Victoria Real Estate Board, also were on the platform.

N. B. Pollock, vice-president of the institute, and Major Godfrey, moved votes of thanks to the visiting speakers. Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen presented to Mrs. Pooley, Mrs. Crouch and Mayor Anscomb, beautiful baskets of gladiolas.

The reception committee consisted of Miss Kelly, president of the Colwood Women's Institute, Mrs. A. C. McVicker, president of the Metchosin Women's Institute, Mrs. David Welch, president of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's institute, Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, together with the directors of the institute.

CHILDREN'S SPORTS

The sports for the school children took place the early part of the afternoon, and were in charge of L. B. Matthews, principal Happy Valley school, assisted by Mrs. R. Kipling and Messrs. J. P. Emery, principal Colwood school, and C. B. W. Storch of north Sooke.

Sport events were as follows:

Girls' open, 100 yards — 1, Violet Woodruff; 2, Pamela Bennett.

Girls, 12 to 15 years, 75 yards—1, Violet Woodruff; 2, Pamela Bennett.

Boys, 12 to 15 years, 75 yards—1, Malcolm Lorimer; 2, Kenneth Shepherd.

A rest tent, under the supervision of Miss H. G. Kelly, R.N., was a haven of rest for mothers and children.

Visitors from Victoria included Mrs. J. D. Gordon, president, Provincial Board of Women's Institutes, Mrs. V. S. McLachlan, superintendent of Women's Institutes, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Holland, Mrs. Marshall and many others.

Through the kindness of Mrs. James Dunsmuir of Hatley Park, beautiful fuchsias and ferns were loaned for decorative purposes.

In the hall were some very fine exhibits by the pupils of the Happy Valley School, including a relief plasticine map of Canada made by the senior pupils. Also of interest was a logging project, including high-rigging, donkey engine and cabins. An exhibition of modeling of fruit, animals and objects by the junior pupils was very good, as well as the exhibits of writing and drawing.

Judging of the exhibits of flowers, fruit, produce, field crops, needlework and home cooking was a difficult task, all judges testifying to the exceedingly high standard of articles exhibited. E. D. White, district horticulturist, who judged fruit, vegetables and field crops, remarked on the large number and such good specimens of early potatoes, also on the large collection of apples, the superb quality of the plums and one special exhibit of blackberries. Corn standing thirteen feet high from Helgesen's Farm, Metchosin, was greatly admired. Mrs. T. W. Martindale of Nanaimo, who judged the domestic science and women's work, stated the needlework was excellent, showing great skill. Other judges included Wm. Gilbert, for cattle and sheep; James Allan, poultry instructor, New Westminster, for poultry.

The Scotch dancing committee was comprised of N. B. Pollock, chairman, and J. M. Scoular.

Gold and silver and bronze medals were given the winners and the reel dancers were presented with boxes of chocolates by the institute.

The directors of the institute are exceedingly grateful to D. B. F. Bullen of Langford, who supplied the material for the chicken pens, which made excellent housing space for the poultry.

McLarnin Reigns 7 to 5 Favorite to Whip Al Singer To-night

THE SPORTS MIRROR

A YOUNG barrister, with an inclination to take on fat during the winter, has been training at Atlanta, Georgia, for the supreme effort of his golfing career—the winning of the U.S. Amateur championship at Philadelphia, September, 22.

The bulk of his training has consisted of reading law eight hours a day in the offices of Jones, Evins, Powers & Jones, a firm in which the young man is a junior member. The young man's name is Robert T. Jones Jr.

In the life of the world's greatest golf player, golf plays no more part as far as daily rountine is concerned than it does in the programme of the average business man. On Saturday afternoons and Sunday mornings, Bobby and his father and a couple of friends who score in the 80's drive out to the East Lake Country Club, where Bobby learned to play golf. They shoot 18 holes.

That is all the golf on Bobby Jones's schedule, except for the occasional visit of a big butter-and-egg man who refuses to leave Atlanta until he has played a round with Jones.

Every day he checks in at 9 o'clock at the offices of the law firm, on the thirteenth floor of the Trust Company building. At 12 he goes to lunch, usually at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He is back at 1 o'clock and remains until 5 o'clock, which is the time set for punching the time clock. Unless he is busy with a client, he usually leaves at five.

In the evening, the world's greatest golf player spends his time even as every other citizen. Once in a while he goes to the movies. The evening programme often calls for a few rubbers of bridge at home or at the home of friends.

In the offices, where, by the way, he refuses to allow his picture to be taken, the junior member of the firm busies himself mostly with corporation cases. He will tell you himself that he doesn't work simply because he is "in love with his job." He works for probably the same reason that his father works—because "men must work and women must play."

Jones is conscientious about his work however. That's why he decided to become a lawyer. His code is bomb-proof. After he was graduated by Goergia Tech, he entered the real estate business in his home city. He left that for the study of law because his golf prestige was helping him to sell property, and Jones "did not want it that way."

It was his reasoning that business men do not want litigation that may be costly placed in the hands of a man who as lawyer is a good golf player. In law, as in no other pursuit, Jones believes he will rise or fall strictly on his own ability to handle the task at hand.

The question often has been asked of Jones, "why not turn professional? Why not amass $100,000 in a year's time? Think of the exhibition matches, the advertising testimonials, the money to be won in tournaments! How the movies would go for exclusive pictures of Jones! In a few short years, independence, with nothing more to worry about! No law books to be pored over while the heart calls to the fairways!"

* * *

The question has been asked of Jones by many people, including Jones himself. He thinks he has found the right answer. A simple answer. Golf is a great game. He loves it. He has won from it more passing notice, possibly than he ever could in the practice of law. The reason, boiled down, is that Jones is an amateur golfer. He has put home, family and friends above the dollar and he is happy in having done so.

Bobby makes about $15,000 a year through golf articles, in newspapers and magazines. He writes these himself, without the aid of a "spook." His style is clean and smooth.

Golf is his fun. He refuses to make it his life work because he thinks he is bigger than that. In the years after his deeds on the courses have become history, he will still be Robert Tyre Jones Jr., Atlanta's most beloved citizen.

COLONIST HOOPSTERS TO MEET

The Colonist basketball team will hold a special meeting in The Colonist business office to-morrow evening at 8.15 o'clock. All members of last year's squad are requested to be on hand to discuss plans for the coming season.

Vancouver Slugger Meets World Champ In Ten Round Bout

Fans Fail to Show Great Amount of Interest in Scrap But $125,000 Gate May Watch Lightweight King and Tough Two-fisted Canadian Perform at Madison Square Garden; McLarnin Will Have Weight Advantage of About Six Pounds; No Broadcast of Bout.

New York, Sept. 11.—With nothing but his reputation at stake, Al Singer, youthful king of the lightweights, takes on Jimmy McLarnin, a tough two-fisted welterweight from Vancouver, B.C., in a ten-round bout at the Yankee Stadium to-night.

Despite the fact that McLarnin will outweigh the young Jewish titleholder by six pounds, the betting marts refused to offer better than 7 to 5 on the twenty-three-year-old Canadian slugger, who has knocked out such topnotchers as Jackie Fields, Sammy Baker, Ruby Goldstein, Louis "Kid" Kaplan and Sid Terris. Singer sought the bout and will have no alibis if laid low or outpointed by Jimmy.

McLarnin has campaigned in every division from the flyweights to the welters at some time or the other, conquering a half dozen champions, either before or after they won their titles, but never at weight. For his size and inches, Jimmy is just about the best two-fisted hitter in the game to-day.

INTEREST LAGS

Although the fight will not be broadcast, the ever faithful have been slow to rally to the box office. The line outside the Madison Square ticket office began to lengthen yesterday, however, furnishing evidence that the gate may reach $125,000.

CUP YACHTS RETURN TO THE WATER

Shamrock V and Enterprise Groomed for First Race of America's Cup Series

Canadian Press

Newport, R.I., Sept. 11.—Shamrock V and Enterprise, challenger and defender respectively for the historic America's Cup, were scheduled to take to the water again to-day, after having spent the last few days drying their paint on marine railways. If weather is favorable, both boats will go for a spin this afternoon.

It has been a quiet week among the afterguards, except for the flurry as to whether or not the sliding foot boom of the Defender was legal or not. But with the first series starting on Saturday interest is mounting rapidly.

Both boats have had finishing touches applied to them and will not be painted again before the races. Shamrock, with her sides sandpapered, now presents a dull appearance. Her sandpapered hull will offer less resistance in the water than if freshly painted. Enterprise also was to go into the first series minus a considerable quantity of paint.

LIPTON FEELING BETTER

Sir Thomas Lipton, veteran sportsman, making his fifth assault on the historic "old mug," as he calls it, has been enjoying motor trips on land. His health has improved since he has been here, although he is still not as well as he might be. His spirts seen unruffled, however. He has great faith in his boat and believes she is the best challenger he has ever brought over to these shores.

KEEN MATCHES FEATURE PRO GOLF TOURNEY

Johnny Farrell and Joe Kirkwood Extended to Limit to Reach Quarter Finals

Sarazen, Lone Remaining Former Champion, in Smashing Win

Flushing, N.Y., Sept. 11.—Minus the defending champion, the Professional Golfers' Association's championship swung into the quarter final round to-day with Gene Sarazen the only former titleholder remaining, and seven other veterans fighting for the crown vacated yesterday by Leo Diegel.

Diegel, who has held the title for two years, fell by the wayside when he was unable to cope with the short but accurate game of Harold Sampson, thirty-five-years-old, 118-pound Californian. Leo dropped the decision on the thirty-eighth-hole after squaring the match at the end of the regulation thirty-six holes.

Johnny Farrell just barely managed to nose out Denny Shute, Columbus, 1 up, and Joe Kirkwood was carried to the thirty-seventh-hole before he disposed of Jock Collins of Dayton, Ohio. Sarazen advanced with a smashing 7 and 5 triumph over Bob Crowley, Haverhill, Mass., while Charles Lacey took the measure of Al Watrous 5 and 4.

Tommy Armour eliminated Bob Shave of Cleveland 7 and 5, and Al Espinosa, of the Espinosa brothers, downed Lighthorse Harry Cooper 4 and 3. Horton Smith completed the eight to go into the quarter final round with a 5 and 4 victory over Laruie Ayton, Evanston, Ill.

To-day's schedule bring together Sampson and Lacey; Armour and Farrell; Sarazen and Espinosa and Kirkwood and Smith.

BRITISH NET STARS DEFEATED

Rogers, Perry and Lee Suffer Defeat in U.S. Singles Championship

Tilden, Hunter and Half a Dozen Youngsters Remain in Bitter Struggle

By Ted Vosburgh, Associated Press Sports Writer

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 11.—Those two old soldiers of the tennis court, Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, stood to-day in the quarter final round of the National tennis singles championship surrounded by half a dozen youngsters ranging in age from eighteen to twenty-four.

Tilden was more than ever the favorite against the field in his bid for his eighth U.S. singles crown, but both he and Hunter face the stiffest kind of opposition.

Fortunes of war pitted Tilden against the same opponent he met in the quarter final round of last year's tournament—Johnny Van Ryn.

On that occasion Tilden turned back the former Princeton captain in four sets after a hard fight. That Tilden has all his shots working at concert pitch was indicated yesterday when he downed Lyttleton Rogers, six feet seven-inch Irish Davis Cup ace, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Van Ryn displayed his usual well rounded game in downing Frederick Perry, one of the best of the younger English players, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

DOEG FAVORED

Hunter, facing big Johnny Doeg in another quarter final in the same half of the draw, was given only an outside chance to win. Doeg needed only three sets to dispose of Harold R. N. Lee of the English contingent, 8-6, 6-1, 6-4, and Hunter repeated his victory of last season's tournamcnt over Richard N. Williams, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

In the upper half of the draw, the youngsters ruled supreme with nineteen-year-old Frank Shields opposing Gregory Mangin, twenty-two, and Sidney Wood, eighteen, clashing with Cliff Sutter, the twenty-year-old national intercollegiate champion from New Orleans. Van Ryn is twenty-four and Doeg twenty-one.

Shields and Sutter provided the big sensations of yesterday's play in disposing of two fighting Texans, Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, respectively, in a pair of stirring five-set struggles. Both had their hands more than full to-day with Shields meeting the hard-hitting Mangin and Sutter opposing the happy-go-lucky Wood.

LINEHAM IN FINE ROUND FOR RECORD

Colwood Star Negotiates First Nine of Home Course in Brilliant 31

Hole-in-one at Seventh; Slips on Second Nine to Get a 70

Harold Lineham, one of Colwood's best amateurs, established a new record for his home course yesterday afternoon when he negotiated the first nine holes in the remarkable score of thirty-one. Lineham, during the course of his record-breaking round, scored a hole-in-one on the seventh, the second of his career on the same hole. Lineham was playing with Percy Edmonds on this round.

Lineham, up until yesterday, had held the record for the first nine with a thirty-two. This was scored last summer when he set a new amateur record for the course of sixty-eight, which was equaled Sunday by Norman Wallace, club champion.

GOES TO PIECES

With a splendid chance of setting a new course record, Lineham went to pieces coming home, going over par on the twelfth, thirteenth, sixteenth and eighteenth holes. He finished with a thirty-nine for an eighteen-hole total of seventy, which is par.

Lineham's card follows:

Out ..... 3 3 4 3 5 4 1 4 4—31
In ..... 4 3 5 5 5 3 5 4 5—39—70

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Vancouver Firemen nosed out Trapp Buicks, of New Westminster, 2 to 1, in the third game of the play-offs for the British Columbia baseball championship, at Athletic Park yesterday evening. The victory gave the city champions a lead of one game in the five-game series.

The Firemen got to Eddie Olson, New Westminster mound ace, for nine safe hits, but they were so well scattered that they could do no better than score two runs on them. Three of the hits were poled out by Charlie Miron, two three-baggers and a single, while Lefty Kaye rapped out three singles in three times up. Kaye for the Firemen held the invaders to four hits, one a two-bagger by Doug. Fraser, the others, singles and well scattered.

The fourth game of the series will be played here Saturday afternoon.

Weakened British Polo Team Beaten For World Honors

Dogged by Hard Luck Britons Put Up Great Fight Against U. S. Four But Are Beaten 14 to 9 to Lose International Series for Westchester Cup; Eric Pedley Stars for Victors With Eight Goals; U.S. Team Forced to Come From Behind to Win.

Canadian Press

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 11.—Great Britain's four to-day were acclaimed gallant losers of the international polo series with the United States for the historic Westchester Cup, after dropping the second match yesterday by a score of 14 to 9. The United States won the first match of the series Saturday, 10 to 5.

Not since 1914 has a British team provided such a serious threat against the supremacy of the United States four. For the first five periods yesterday 45,000 spetcators sat stunned and amazed by the fury of the British attack which kept them leading in a seesaw match. At the start of the sixth chukker Great Britain led at 7 to 6, but a four-goal rally by their United States rivals sent them out in front, and at the end of the period they led by 10 to 7.

HAD HARD LUCK

Hard luck had dogged the Britons ever since they landed in the United States. Sickness and injury had depleted their ranks, and they suffered from a lack of reserve material. Their game depended on C. T. I. Roark and Lewis Lacey. These two were everywhere. They covered the field, and made spectators wonder what would have happened had Capt. George been available for his regular position at No. 1.

The United States clinched possession of the classic international cup, emblem of the world polo supremacy, for the fourth successive time since the war.

Junior Softball Title Annexed By Saanich Thistles

Good pitching, airtight fielding and heavy batting gave the Saanich Thistles, the Junior Softball League championship at Central Park yesterday evening, when they sent the Seven Oaks, finalists, down to a 10-3 defeat.

Following the game George "Joker" Patton presented to Dave Mowat, captain of the winners, the cup emblematic of the championship in their division.

The Thistles got away to an early lead and increased their margin with two homers before the game had gone very far. Bob Whyte umpired.

Japanese Flash Great Attack to Swamp Meralomas

Touring Nipponese Chalk Up Third Straight Victory at Expense of Vancouver Fifteen by 27 to 0 Count; Led 16 to 0 at Half-time; Meralomas Outclassed in Every Department; Next Game of Series Scheduled on September 24.

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Unleashing a lightning-fast attack that their rivals could not cope with, Imperial Japanese English rugby squad triumphed over Meralomas at Brockton Point oval Wednesday afternoon by the decisive score of 27 to 0. It was the third victory in as many starts for the Japanese fifteen, they having defeated the Varsity squad twice.

Meralomas battled gamely, but were outclassed in every department by the fleet invaders, whose speed and uncanny smartness held the clubbers bottled up impotent for the greater part of the game.

Only once or twice during the match did the Meralomas get anywhere near making points, and each time the alert, fast moving Japanese thwarted them. Pete Wilson at five-eighths, and Bill Phillips at half for the club squad were the pick of the team, and they were the only ones to give the invaders any trouble.

LEAD 16 TO 0

Japanese clinched the game in the first half when they ran up 16 points. Chiba started the tallying when he went over for an unconverted try Fugii followed with a penalty kick to make the count read 6 to 0. Then Fugii, outstanding speedster of the team, raced sixty yards for a try which was converted to make it 11 to 0.

Toba converted a try near the end of the half to run the total to 16 to 0 as the teams left the field.

Chiba again started the counting on the resumption of play with his second unconverted try. Tanaka duplicated his feat a few minutes later to make it 22 to 0, and Shimaza completed the day's work with a converted try as the game neared the end. Meralomas played desperately in their efforts to hold the score down, and were a weary aggregation when the final whistle blew.

Next game of the Japanese series in Vancouver will be played September 24 at Brockton Point.

SUMMARY

First half: Chiba, unconverted, 3; Fugii, penalty kick, 3; Fugii, converted try, 5; Tabo, converted try, 5—16.

Second half: Chiba, unconverted 3; Tanaka, unconverted, 3; Chimaza, converted, 5.—11. Total 27 to 0.

ENGLISH TRACK MAN PAYS SHORT VISIT TO CITY

R. Leigh-Wood, British Quarter-miler at the Empire Games, Enjoys Swim Here

"I just thought I'd drop out and see the West Coast while I was in Canada," explained R. Leigh-Wood, English quarter-mile runner, who arrived in Victoria yesterday after competing in the British Empire Games at Hamilton and the international meet at Chicago the following week.

Since the completion of the latter competition, the Englishman has spent some time looking around the different parts of the Dominion and will go to Boston shortly to accept a position there.

Mr. Leigh-Wood is the son of Sir James Leigh-Wood, K.B.E., C.B., C.M.G., head of the British Amateur Athletic Federation, and one of the referees at the recent British Empire Games.

SWAM AT GARDENS

Yesterday afternoon the English track star spent a short time in the Crystal Garden, which he considered one of the best and most beautiful swimming pools he had ever been in. His only fault with the entire building was the spring board.

"It's too bad they do not put in a better board for the Victoria divers to practice on," he commented, noting the sogginess of the ten-foot plank.

Reminiscences of the Empire and the Chicago meets were given by the blonde Britisher, who thoroughly enjoyed the competitions in the Hamilton stadium.

Mr. Leigh-Wood was expected to leave Victoria this afternoon for Boston.

Wanda Spencer And L. Gill Win Handicap Swims

Les Gill and Wanda Spencer, Crystal Garden freestyle swimmers, captured first places in the handicap swims held by the club at its weekly practice night in the Crystal Garden yesterday evening.

Hugh Francis and Art Speed finished second and third respectively in the men's event, while Kitty Moody and Peggy Pollard gained the same places in the women's race.

After the events, the members of the club joined in a water polo practice.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 11.—Benny Bass of Philadelphia, junior lightweight champion, lost a decision on a foul to Tommy Celio, Pacific Coast champion, yesterday evening. The blow came in the second round ending the fight there.

R. H. LYONS IS PRESIDENT OF BOWLERS

Two Senior Leagues Will Operate This Season; Will Bowl at Both Alleys

R. H. Lyons, veteran James Island trundler, was elected president of the City and Commercial Bowling Leagues at the annual meeting held yesterday evening at the Arcade Alleys. Horace Beer was elected vice-president. Frank Moore was re-elected to the position of secretary-treasurer.

J. L. Tait was named honorary president of the leagues and H. Maynard, honorary vice-president.

It was decided to close entries for the league on October 7 and stage the opening games on October 13. Another meeting to arrange schedules will be held following the closing of the entries.

During the meeting Rowan MacKenzie, manager of the Olympic Recreations Limited, which will open the new alleys being constructed on Yates Street, spoke at length on the plans made by him and his associates for the coming season. After considerable discussion it was decided to operate a Senior A and Senior B City League with the teams bowling at the new alleys one week and the Arcade Alleys the next week. They will alternate in this manner throughout the season.

ORGANIZE NEW TEAMS

Considerable organization work is being carried out at the present time and bowling is expected to show a big gain in popularity this season. With twenty alleys available at the Olympic the accommodation for both tenpin and fivepin teams will be considerably better this year.

Rifle Shooting

Major Fred Richardson, winner of the Governor-General's prize in the Dominion Rifle Association's meet in Ottawa recently, yesterday led the marksmen in the regular mid-week shoot held by the Victoria and District Rifle Association at Heals Range. The winner scored ninety-nine. Private A. W. Evans finished second, two below him.

Results follow:

Interest is now centred on the competition for the Weiler Challenge Trophy, which will open Saturday afternoon, when the first stage will be shot at 200, 500 and 600 yards. The trophy will be on view at the range, and must be won three times by any marksman to become his personal property.

National League Race Proves Real Traffic Jam

Brooklyn Robins Beat Cubs Again; Cards Gain Ground

Race Proves Keenest in History; Brooklyn Turns Back Chicago Once More; St. Louis Stop Giants Who Are in Fourth Place But Only Three Games Behind Leaders; Yankees Win as Athletics and Washington Both Suffer Setbacks.

After seeing the congestion caused by four teams trying to occupy one place, it appears that a squadron of traffic police is needed along the road to the National League pennant. So far all the efforts of the teams from Chicago, St. Louis, Brooklyn and New York to get to the championship only have resulted in one of the greatest jams that highway ever has seen.

The only progress made in yesterday's pair of "crucial" games was to bring the Brooklyn Robins and St. Louis Cardinals a game closer to Chicago's league-leading Cubs, while the New York Giants in fourth place remained only three games behind the top. With Adolfo Luque making history repeat itself by shutting out the National League champions with five hits, the Robins made it two straight over the Cubs by a 6 to 0 count, while St. Louis retained its one-point grip on second place as Jim Bottomley's eighth inning home run gave the Cards a 5 to 3 victory over the Giants.

As the clubs prepared for the third games of the two series to-day, the final clash for Chicago and Brooklyn, this is how they stood:

	W.	L.	Pct.	To Play
Chicago	80	58	.580	15
St. Louis	78	59	.569	17
Brooklyn	79	60	.566	15
New York	77	61	.558	16

Tom Zachary's four-hit pitching and Wally Berger's thirty-fourth home run gave the Boston Braves a 5 to 0 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates, who are not so far out of the pennant race, while steady and timely hitting by the Phillies enabled them to defeat Cincinnati in the fourth National League clash.

WASHINGTON BEATEN

Washington Senators allowed the St. Louis Browns to hand them a 3 to 2 setback. They remained six and a half games behind the Philadelphia Athletics, who were not so successful with their four blows off Vic Sorrell in another fine pitching duel. They failed to score, while the Detroit Tigers bunched a good part of their five hits for four runs in the fourth inning and won by that margin.

Danny MacFayden of Boston gave Chicago White Sox only six hits, while the Red Sox hammered out a 6 to 2 victory. Henry Johnson of New York had the honor of outpitching Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's young ace, to give the Yankees their second straight triumph over the Indians, 7 to 2.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS

To the Sports Editor:—Since there are a few shooting accidents every season, may I suggest, that every hunter have a piece of red ribbon tied around the gun just behind the first sight. It would suggest: "Be careful. What are you shooting at?—Is there a man over there?" "Is that a deer?"

My neighbor suggests that every hunter wear a red hat. Of course the red ribbon would give the desired warning.

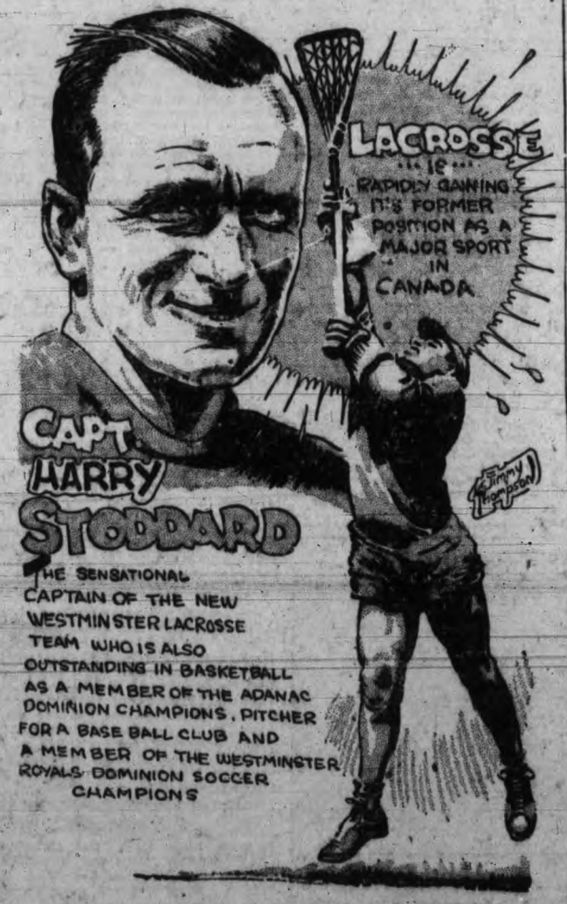
Canada's National Sport

By JIMMY THOMPSON



They say they don't come back. Well, here's one that did. Lacrosse has become a big sport again. The game has been cleaned up and once more Old Man Public is spending his time and money on the game. First the Americans come over and hand our local talent a good dubbing with the result the boys got hot under the collar and the next game they set out like a house afire to retain the Lally Cup. Yet it took this trimming and a group of all-star athletes from over the line to make the boys wake up. Then came the boys of New Westminster, a lacrosse team that still remains great, even as a finalist. Thy are the boys that helped out Bill Harcourt. The former treasurer ran the competition the first year on postage stamps. This year nearly 20,000 people saw the Mann Cup finals. That means that Bill Harcourt had about $4,500 to bank for the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association—nothing wrong with that. Haddy Stoddard, captain of the Salmonbellies, mentioned at the banquet that his team had done remarkably well owing to the fact that they were outweighed by thirty pounds. Eastern critics don't think this is necessary—they did more than well. In fact, more than one Brampton supporter was uneasy right up till the last ten minutes of the game. They look almost at any time as though they were ready to put the Excelsiors on the shelf. All that the boys in the east hope is that next season the west has a team as good as the New Westminsters.

Short Cut Jr. In Fast Performance To Win Handicap

Charlie Campbell's Gelding Shows Speed Over Mile and Seventy-yard Route to Take Purse in Craigflower Handicap at Colwood; Vision II, Odds-on Favorite, Beaten in Stretch, Finishing Fourth; Close Finishes Mark Holiday Card.

Covering the mile and seventy yards in 1.45 4-5, Charlie Campbell's five-year-old gelding, Short Cut Jr., captured the major share of the pot in the $500 Craigflower handicap at Colwood track yesterday. It was the second straight victory for Short Cut this week.

The Retals Stable's Vision II was installed an odds-on favorite for the event, but after leading for half the route was headed by Harry H. Bell and, with the latter, tired in the stretch, finishing fourth. Plain Pete got the place and Extension the show. The winner, ridden by Marshall, paid $9.95 straight.

Several close finishes marked yesterday's racing card, and the fair-sized crowd of fans for the half-holiday got plenty of thrills.

FAVORITE WINS

Dr. J. B. Clark's Silk Train, the favorite, finished strongly to get the first by a neck from Smart Horse. She paid $8.10, as several other ponies received considerable backing. Smart Horse was a 12-to-1 shot and paid $10.75 to place. Gransson was third. Mary Dear set the pace for the whole distance until the stretch, where she tired when challenged by the winners and finished fourth. Gransson came from well back to get the show.

SEVEN-TO-ONE SHOT WINS

Coming from behind on the last turn when the leaders were closely bunched, Snively, a 7 to 1 shot, came on to win the second by a head from Easter Prince in a thrilling finish. Chatterboy got the show. The winner, ridden by Balentine, paid $15.50 straight. Both Chatterboy and Prince Taro, after setting most of the pace, lost ground when forced to take up on the last turn but finished gamely.

TWO FOR BALENTINE

After rushing out into a five-lengths lead, Short Way, the favorite, withstood a hard challenge in the stretch to win by a neck from June Star in the third. It was Balentine's second winner in a row. Rounding the last turn Short Way was well in the lead, but got out into the middle of the track in the stretch and was just able to hold off the place horse. Hill and Hill, a rank outsider, was third, paying $10.10 for show. Kingsmah, another outsider, with Pevic aboard, was well up on the pace to the last turn, but failed in the drive and finished fourth. Selma Barbe, second choice, never got into the running.

TENNESSEE WINS

Under a hustling ride by Jockey Palaez in the stretch the Emmett mare Tennessee took advantage of the fact that Jockey Chipping on the leading Billy Walz lost his whip and won the fourth by a length, with Billy Walz second. Billy Walz had taken the lead going into the stretch and appeared to be the winner, but the boy was unable to hustle him to hold off Tennessee. Star Falcon, closing fast, got the show by a head from Queen of Prosser, which faltered in the last fifty yards.

FAVORITE WINS SIXTH

Showing the most speed at all stages, Gold Chain, owned by the Riverview stable, was ridden home to victory by Jockey Pevic in the sixth, getting the call by half a length over Atascador, a twenty-to-one shot, which closed rapidly to get the place. The Falconer was third. Gold Chain was the favorite. Tatawi, second choice, was never able to get close to the pacemakers.

WINS EASILY

Brookwood was in a class by himself in the seventh race, winning by three lengths with Spear Short second and Paved Way third. Going into the lead at the first turn Brookwood made every post a winning one to win pulled up. Prattle, who was established favorite, was never a contender.

Bobby Jones On Golf

The most popular theory of the putting stroke is that the club should move like the pendulum of a clock with the club face always looking along the intended line. This idea I cannot help regarding as an absolute ideal yet impossible of accomplishment in actual practice. There simply is no track for the stroke to slide on, and too much contortion involved in executing the movement from a fixed centre at the hands of the player.

It seems to me that the simplest view the player can take—and this is nearly always the best—is that the putt is merely a short golf shot which is played exactly like any other shot except for the abbreviation. Many of the best putters vary their grips on the green but they do this mainly to encourage the delicate quality of the stroke, placing the wrists in positions where they are least likely to oppose one another. In the main, it will be found I think, that very few of them actually concern themselves about taking the club back and bringing it forward exactly along the line.

Just as in playing any other stroke it is important to look to the position of the club face only at impact, and if it turns away and turns back the result is as satisfactory as if the club head always adhered to the line. It is the accuracy of the performance and the consistency with which it is repeated that counts most. How much better it is then that no confusing complications be added to increase the difficulty of the job! Certainly there is more likelihood of success in merely repeating the process which the player goes through in executing all the other shots that he knows.

REGARD PUTT AS JUST ANOTHER GOLF SHOT

There is another very helpful thing about this conception. Too many players have the idea that a putt is a putt regardless of what the length may be, and that if it is proper to putt from ten feet by the use of the wrists alone, then a putt of fifty feet must likewise be stroked with wrists alone. This is one great reason why most players find the long approach putts so difficult. They refuse to employ the power of the arms or body, and so either fail to produce enough force to reach the objective, or they force the stroke, just as they force a drive or an iron, and destroy the accuracy of it.

When the putt becomes merely another golf shot this trouble is removed. If the length is short only the wrists are needed. As the putt becomes longer the wrists must flex more and more until a point is reached where it becomes more comfortable to move the arms as well. In other words, just so much as is needed of a normal swing is taken.

MOST IMPORTANT THING

I think the most important thing to be done on the putting green is to place the body in a comfortable position, where it is perfectly balanced yet free to move at the least suggestion of necessity. There should be perfect relaxation and no strain in any muscle. That done the putt is merely a matter of stroking the ball smoothly and easily toward the hole.

I do not like to even hear anything said about keeping the head or body still. It may be good practice but it is not a good thing to think about because the very effect invariably produces a rigidity which is not healthy. The more naturally one can fall into position the better off he will be.

SHOOTING WITH SHUTE

By DENNY SHUTE

Perhaps the safest, easiest and most skilful way of getting a ball out of a bunker is the cut shot, a shot that is almost entirely neglected by the average golfer. Most of them fall back on the explosion shot which, because of its uncertainty, has become known as a notorious alibi shot.

Years ago everybody played the cut shot to get the ball out of the trap. Rarely is the stroke seen in use today. Yet there is none other that can be compared with it when quick rise and control of length is desired.

A cut shot is played with a niblick or mashie-niblick, with the face of the club flattened out. The address should be strictly open, with the toe-line almost at right angles to the proposed line of flight. Such stance naturally results in playing across the ball, which is decidedly the object. The cut properly applied is the drawing of the club inward across the ball. The distance the ball travels is merely a question of how far the cross-line goes inward toward the centre of the ball.

BRITISH DOCTORS SCORN EIGHTEEN-DAY DIETING

Visiting Medicos Apparently Relish Special Fare Provided on Trains

Because the true Englishman will not reconcile himself to such Canadian delicacies as corn on the cob, smothered in butter; wheat cakes dripping with maple syrup, and fat baked apples, skilled chefs of the Canadian Pacific Railway dining cars went out of their way to provide everything dear to a Britisher's palate for distinguished members of the British Medical Association who left here recently on their return journey east.

HEARTY BREAKFAST

To the good Britisher dining is no matter of small importance. Breakfast is a hearty affair, more so than in Canada; luncheon is seldom belittled by being called "lunch," and dinner is a gastronomical rite without which no day can come to a perfect end. Therefore Canadian Pacific chefs who had the honor of catering to such a distinguished body as the members of the British Medical Association, who toured the Rockies and British Columbia, set about to provide homelike menus for those who had come 6,000 miles from home to see Canada. Special trains carrying the medical delegates had special menus attractively printed on a series of menu cards which carried the crest of the British Medical Association, and, on the covers, pictures showing typically Canadian scenes and data about Canada.

There were many items on these menus that do not ordinarily find a place in Canadian dining car fare. Typically British foods prepared for Britishers include such well-known delicicies as potted beef with mushrooms, assorted cold meats, old English apple dumpling, ripe old Roquefort, Edam and Cheddar cheeses; Old Country kippers, lemon cheese cakes, roast beef with Yorkshire pudding and horseradish, Eccles cakes, Cambridge sausage, lamb kidney with bacon, toasted crumpets, Bengal chutney, beetroots, old English roly-poly, Melton Mowbray pies, and, very important, old English stone ginger beer.

SOUVENIR MENUS

The idea of producing this series of specially printed and ornamented menus was conceived by D. S. Fraser, superintendent of Canadian Pacific dining cars in Vancouver, who instructed his crews to present all members of the party with souvenir copies of the bill of fare of each meal.

Much praise for the consideration shown to them in the provision of foods to which they were accustomed, and which lent a familiar touch to new surroundings was voiced by various distinguished doctors who traveled with the medical party. Melton Mowbray pies particularly scored a hit, and though scores of them were stored on the diners before leaving Vancouver, all of them had vanished like mist in the sun long before the train reached Field.

NO EIGHTEEN DAY DIETS

Judging from the menus provided for the doctors, the British medical fraternity does not go in extensively for eighteen-day diets and like inquisitions. Whatever they may prescribe for others, physicians and doctors of the Old Country appeared to have little difficulty sifting through breakfasts which started innocently with orange juice or a baked apple; picked up a starter of cereal, strolled on through Old Country kippers, lemon sole, halibut, salmon or cod, dallied for a moment with Cambridge sausage, settled down more seriously with lamb kidney and bacon, tapered off with rolls, toasted crumpets, hot biscuits, marmalalade or jam, and ended with coffee, tea, or more often than not, cocoa.

TEA AND TIFFIN

Luncheons likewise revealed the sharpness of robust English appetities quickened by British Columbia's bracing climate, while the dinners, starting with hors d'oeuvres, included choice of soup, fish, salmi of duck or similar entree; roast beef with horseradish and all the trimmings; several vegetables such as potatoes, stuffed tomatoes, beetroots and carrots, lemon cheese cakes, Brown Betty pudding, frou frou, Eccles cakes and assorted cheeses.

Afternoon tea proved attractive to the travelers, and the first tap of the white-coated waiter's gong would bring them hurrying to the diners for a pot of tea and a bit of muffin

LOCAL SPORTING MAN MARRIED

Miss Eleanor Wright Becomes Bride of Samuel (Sid) Thomas

A large congregation, including many members of the local sporting fraternity witnessed the ceremony at First United Church yesterday evening which united in marriage Eleanor, youngest daughter of Mrs. Leona Wright, 1036 Hillside Avenue, to Samuel (Sid) Thomas, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Thomas, of Vancouver. The groom is a member of The Colonist editorial staff and secretary of the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League, Victoria and District Wednesday Football League and the Fivepin Bowling League.

Rev. J. S. Unsworth officiated. The church was decorated with autumn flowers, the ceremony being performed beneath an archway of mauve and white asters.

Given in marriage by her brother, Harry Wright, the bride wore an ankle-length wedding gown of cream georgette, with insets of silk lace. Her veil of embroidered silk net was imposed over pink silk net and caught to the head with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of Calla lilies.

Mrs. William K. Barker, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing an ankle-length gown of mauve satin and a white lace hat trimmed with French flowers. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses, mauve sweet peas and peach scabiosa. Miss Hilda Hinder was bridesmaid, and wore a pretty gown of peach ninon, with a white lace hat trimmed with flowers to match her dress. Her bouquet was of Columbia roses, mauve sweet peas and carnations.

There were also two little flower girls, Mavis Barker, niece of the bride, and Bernice Lockwood, a cousin of the bride. They wore frocks of frilled net over peach and apple green silk, respectively, and wore bandeaux of French flowers in their hair. They carried baskets of rose petals, which they scattered before the bride and groom as they left the church.

The groom was supported by Harold B. McDonald. Joseph Wright, brother of the bride, and William K. Barker, her brother-in-law were ushers. While the register was being signed, Franz Tupman sang a solo, accompanied at the organ by Jack Smith.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Harmony Hall, where more than two hundred guests were received. The bride and groom were assisted by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of black crepe-back satin and black satin hat. The bride and groom stood beneath an arch and decorated with Autumn leaves, from which was suspended a wedding bell. A three-tiered cake centred the table, which was arranged with vases of rosebuds and green tapers in silver holders.

The bride and groom left later for Vancouver, en route to Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in a taupe silk ensemble, with a muskrat fur coat and fox collar. Her hat was of brown and taupe felt. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will make their home at 2550 Vancouver Street.

Among the many beautiful gifts was a handsome Sheffield silver tray from the editorial staff of The Colonist and a mahogany clock presented by the Police Mutual Benefit Association.

CHILDREN'S AID PLAN TAG DAY

Local Institution to Appeal Saturday for Much-needed Funds

Saturday has been set aside as a tag day for the Victoria Children's Aid Society and the committee of that organization are hoping for a generous response from the public. No work can be more deserving than that of caring for neglected children, children whose home surroundings have been unfortunate or who through other circumstances have had to be taken over and cared for by this society.

Although the society receives an annual grant from the City of Victoria to assist in carrying out this work, additional funds are at all times necessary to enable the society to give their wards that degree of comfort and care which they ought to receive. The funds of the society are carefully administered by a committee of citizens who give their services freely and all those who contribute may be assured that their money will be carefully spent.

I.O.D.E. Chapter to Meet—The Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter I.O.D.E. will hold its usual monthly meeting at the home of the regent, Mrs. E. E. Wootton, 1255 Victoria Avenue, on Friday at 7.45 o'clock. All members of the chapter are asked to make an effort to be present.

Lasting Softness
is another feature of this deodorizing sanitary protection

BECAUSE it stays soft ... stays cool and light, women find Kotex better. There's no deceptive merely-surface softness about it. The air-cooled layers of filler keep Kotex comfortable longer.

A special process deodorizes Kotex safely, completely. Keeps one dainty, immaculate at times when that is doubly important. Then there are other things: the clever shaping of the pad, for inconspicuous protection under the filmiest frocks. The way you can adjust layers of filler. The fact that it disposes so easily.

Why hospitals use it
Did you know that Kotex filler (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is used in Canada's leading hospitals? It is preferred by surgeons, even for surgical dressings in the most serious operations. They use it because it is so wonderfully absorbent (5 times more, by test, than the finest cotton); so hygienically safe.

INCONSPICUOUS...
1—Designed to remain smooth-fitting under any gown.
2—Deodorizes—By a special process Kotex deodorizes safely and thoroughly.
3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.
4—In hospitals... Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in Canada's leading hospitals.
Kotex—60c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store. Kotex Super-Size—75c for 12.

SUNSHINE CAMP IS CLOSED AFTER A BUSY SEASON

Social Service League Operates Fifth Annual Camp With Success

Sixty-three mothers and two hundred children from families whose purses are taxed to pay for the bare necessities of life and who thus are unable to finance a holiday for themselves, will face the winter months with renewed stamina and more roseate outlook thanks to the Social Service League. These mothers and kiddies were guests of the league at the Sunshine Service Camp at Saseenos, which has just closed its hospitable doors after concluding one of the most successful seasons in its five years' of existence.

The camp was opened on June 12 and operated continuously throughout the summer, each party of mothers and children enjoying a two weeks' stay, and returning home refreshed mentally and physically, both mothers and children in the majority of cases showing a considerable gain in weight and a generous coat of tan.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Nothing was left undone to make everyone happy and comfortable while at camp. The beach was considerably improved for those who enjoyed swimming; swings were arranged under the beautiful maple trees at the entrance to the camp grounds, and a pile of sand was a great attraction to the tiny tots. The mothers had time to rest, read or chat and all thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated the tasty and nourishing meals which were nicely served.

The routine which was adhered to was not at all unpleasant. The morning started off with a swim before breakfast by those who wished a morning dip, then followed breakfast at 8 o'clock, and after attending to little personal duties everyone was free until the dinner bell was heard at 12 noon when all were ready to partake of a wholesome meal. Everyone was again free to do as they pleased until 5.30 when supper was served. The dishes, of course, in each case were taken care of by different groups of mothers, and while dishes for about fifty people three times a day sounds like rather a disagreeable job, it all resulted in more or less fun, and as many hands make light work, they were soon disposed of and forgotten.

The small children were all in bed at 7.30 o'clock and the mothers' real rest followed. Some evenings were spent around the campfire on the beach and sometimes the fireplace in the assembly hall was more attractive. The Sunday services were always looked forward to and also Dr. Felton's health talk to each party was always enjoyed.

MORE COTTAGES ADDED

The camp is steadily growing. Two more large cottages were added this summer, one through the kindness of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and one by the Army and Navy Veterans and a third has been promised. The adjoining property has been purchased and a number of improvements have been suggested for the coming year which will be taken care of as far as possible during the winter months.

Many interested visitors called at the camp during the summer and were amazed at the beautiful spot and the wonderful work which was being carried on.

The league wish to take this opportunity to again thank those who so kindly contributed to the camp fund which made it possible to carry out the plans for the summer, and also to those who were so generous with their cars in taking parties to and from the camp.

Miss Margaret Tilly, Pianist, Charms San Francisco With Playing

Many Victorians who remember Miss Margaret Tilly, formerly of Victoria, will be interested in the following critique from The San Francisco Examiner where she has been giving a piano recital:

"San Franciscans are diving deeper into the ocean which is Bach than they ever dived before, and they are bringing up pearls 'of purest ray serene.' Last night, in Scottish Rite Hall, Miss Margaret Tilly, whom a humorist like Joseph Thompson would assuredly dub a Bacchante, gave a recital devoted exclusively to the works of the great Johann Sebastian and it proved one of the most delightful affairs of the season.

"Miss Tilly gave us liberally of her store. She played the 'Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue,' three of the preludes and fugues from the 'Well Tempered Clavichord,' two gavottes and a couple of passepieds from the B minor Partita, with the B flat Gigue and the C minor Fantasia for encores.

"By the saving grace of youth and a mercurial temperament Miss Tilly plays this exquisite music, in which every part has contour, but contour built upon a harmony which is often surprisingly modern, the artist interprets Bach as if he were a contemporary, as indeed he is—in the sense that Dante and Shakespeare are contemporaries. She is a Nietzschean and makes music with the creative joy that children put into their play. . .

"Miss Tilly should give a second Bach recital. If she does I would like to dictate the programme."

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

Baby, if born in the fall months, will probably take his first official airing at about the fourth week. Babies born in the middle of the winter may not be able to go out until they are six weeks old, depending upon the climate and their own good health.

These daily airings, taken at a regular time, are not a fad or a method of showing off baby, but protect baby's vitality and stimulate his health. During the increasingly cold days of early autumn the infant adjusts himself to the changes in temperature so that the cold days will not bother him. The baby who is kept in an even temperature and protected from all changes catches cold at the first sniff of chillier air.

The first six months are important growing and developing ones for baby, and during this time lack of sunshine may give rickets a foothold. No matter how good his food baby must have sunshine, and if he is kept wrapped in blankets and never given an opportunity for airings and sunshine, he will be a ready victim of this nutritional ailment.

HOW TO GIVE AIRINGS

Widely opened windows through which sunshine is pouring, or a porch upon which baby's carriage can be wheeled and set in the direct sunlight, are two methods of providing baby with fresh air and sunlight without actually pacing up and down the sidewalks with him. We are inclined to believe, though, that this exercise in the open air has direct benefits for the mother, too, and shouldn't be looked upon as such an arduous duty.

Baby's airing and mother's shopping hours are often tied firmly together, so it is well to warn the mother that baby can't get his allotment of sun and air if he is wrapped to the eyes and wheeled about in the super-heated air of a shop. Likewise his carriage should not be used as a carry-all for packages, a warning not so far-fetched if one is to judge by the number of tiny babies one sees buried under loaves of bread, tins of coffee, packages of crackers and whatnot on their way home from the grocer's.

AVOID TOO MANY BLANKETS

Veils are an abomination for the child of any age, and the practice of wrapping baby in blankets until only his eyes are visible is hardly conducive to his breathing anything fresher than his own breath.

A carriage with an adjustable hood is the most comfortable means of taking the small baby for an airing. It should be of ample size, provided with good springs and well padded with a soft pillow to prevent the inevitable jolts and jars. Baby can be dressed in hood and coat of sufficient warmth so that not more than two soft, woolen covers will be needed to keep him comfortable. Babies cannot sleep when so weighted by heavy covers that not a toe can wiggle. Remember this when the baby cries wildly outdoors, while the tired mother says to herself: "Why can't he be good when I am martyr enough to wheel him around all afternoon?"

SCHOOL CHILDREN ESSAY CONTESTS

Victoria school children will be busy soon writing in two essay contests, if plans laid before the School Board last night materialize.

The Coliseum Theatre will offer prizes for an essay of 200 words on the film "Atlantic," which will be shown there shortly.

"Constructive Criticism of Political Radio Broadcasting" is the subject for a $1,000 word essay contest for the Victoria Radio Club.

While the board refused to officially countenance the contests on the grounds that they would interrupt school work, it is probable they will be held.

Plans are also being made to give children of certain grades a free showing of the film "Jugoslavkia Sokol," depicting the five-yearly review of the famous training system in that country. The Local Council of Women is arranging this affair.

Archduke Albrecht Issues Statement on Morganatic Marriage

Budapest, Sept. 11.—The newspaper Ujsag yesterday made public a declaration by Archduke Albrecht to the effect that while he adheres to belief in the validity of his marriage in England recently, to the divorced wife of a Hungarian diplomat, according to the Hungarian civil law, he is convinced "as a faithful Catholic from a human standpoint and having a regard for his soul's salvation," that his marriage was not fully valid.

For this reason, the statement says, he has not taken up common habitation with his bride, who by her union with Albrecht became a Hungarian royal princess. She moved into a villa while Albrecht continues in his former residence until the Pope shall have given the sanction of the church to the wedding.

DR. O. M. JONES CHAPTER

At the regular meeting of the Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. A. Stewart, Despard Avenue, with a very good attendance. A most gratifying letter was received from Mr. David Donald, school medical inspector, praising the efforts of the chapters in supplying milk to under-nourished school children and in which he wrote "the regular issue of milk to those on our lists has had most excellent results in giving better health, better work and more happiness." Arrangements were made for the annual tag day to be held on Saturday, September 27, and the "Hope Chest," which is being raffled in aid of the Milk Fund, will be drawn for during the Rotary Club luncheon a tthe Empress Hotel on Thursday, September 18, and the winner's name published in the papers

Try This Test

This test proves it. Sprinkle a little Old Dutch on the porcelain drain board of your sink; take a smooth coin, lay it on top of the cleanser and rub gently. You won't feel or hear the scratching of harsh, gritty particles. Avoid scratchy cleaners. Scratches ruin surfaces and make lodging places for germs and impurities.

DARING COWBOY IS THRILLING PATRONS AT THE COLUMBIA

One of the newest dramas of the robust western type is "The Lone Rider," the Columbia all-talking action drama now showing at the Columbia Theatre. Buck Jones, filmdom's most daring cowboy is starred in "The Lone Rider." Other roles are played by Vera Reynolds Harry Woods and George Pearce.

NORMA SHEARER IS LEADING LADY AT DOMINION THEATRE

Divorce with love still lurking around the corner from the courthouse motivates the plot of "Let Us Be Gay," Norma Shearer's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which opened to-day at the Dominion Theatre for a three-day engagement.

Miss Shearer renders a striking performance in this delightful picturization of the Rachel Crothers stage hit, again demonstrating her rare versatility which has carried her to new heights in talkies. Robert Z. Leonard, who filmed "The Divorcee," in which the star last triumphed, again was responsible for the direction.

"THE SEA BAT" AT THE CAPITOL WITH POPULAR PLAYERS

A definitely stirring melodrama, "The Sea Bat," now at the Capitol Theatre, is at the same time a novelty in pictures. It gives us a sea picture, with a difference. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer authors have painted a stirring story around that strange and fearsome beast of the sea, the sea bat, a form of giant ray which folds men in its two-ton marine wings.

When John Miljan tricks Nils Asther so that he is killed underwater by the bat, you get but the first of the thrills that come in this story, culminating in the romance between Charles Bickford, escaped convict in minister's clothes, and Raquel Torres. The picture moves with extreme rapidity and as a succession of Kaleidoscopic shots 'neath tropic palms, above and below the sea.

DOROTHY REVIER WAS CHOSEN FOR ARTIST'S MODEL

Dorothy Revier, who plays the leading feminine role in "Vengeance," the Columbia all-talking drama of the Congo, now running at the Playhouse Theatre, has been declared one of the most beautiful girls on the screen. When James Montgomery Flagg was in Hollywood, he chose her as an outstanding film beauty and made one of his famous sketches of her.

Where To Go To-night

As Advertised

ON THE SCREEN

Capitol—"The Sea Bat," starring Charles Bickford.
Coliseum—"So This Is London," with Will Rogers.
Columbia—Buck Jones in "The Lone Rider."
Playhouse—"Vengeance," starring Jack Holt.
Crystal Garden—Swimming and Dancing.

WILL ROGERS AND IRENE RICH PLAY IN COLISEUM FILM

Will Rogers will have no other screen wife than the adorable Irene Rich.

When it was decided that his second venture on the audible screen was to be "So This Is London," which is the Coliseum Theatre's current attraction, none other than Irene Rich would suit Will as "Mrs. Hiram Draper." Being a far seeing woman, Miss Rich, who was playing vaudeville engagements had a clause in her contract which would allow her to do what she most wanted to do—be Will's wife on the screen once more.

INSURANCE MEN HOLD MEETING

Local Life Underwriters at Luncheon To-day Discuss Programme

With President Frederick Lewin, in the chair, the first meeting of the winter season of the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association was held this afternoon in Spencer's dining-room. Discussion at the luncheon centred around the programme for the coming year, and the best way of gaining the support of all of the members of the association. The president was instructed to draft a letter to the managers extolling them to support the association.

The six new members who were introduced to-day, are: Charles Gore Heisterman, Monarch Life; George D. Tyson, Monarch Life; Joseph Burgess, Great West Life; Arthur Harris Cox, Crown Life; James Frederick Stewart Clark, Confederation Life, and H. W. M. Moorhouse, Confederation Life.

The question of the new Licensing Act was discussed. The president told the members that the acting secretary, G. Dyson, Col. Lorne Ross and himself had interviewed H. G. Garrett, B.C. Superintendent of Insurance, with regard to the act. Mr. Garrett had brought the matter up at the Conference of Superintendents of Insurance and Life Underwriters at Edmonton recently. The act, which provides for a uniform license throughout Canada for life underwriters, in place of the nine provincial ones now used, would likely be passed by the Federal Government, the meeting was told. If such a license were issued, the life underwriters would not be faced with so many difficulties when wishing to sell insurance in another province.

The next meeting of the association will be held on October 9, when B. C. Nicholas will be the speaker.

TO NOMINATE CANDIDATE

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—North Vancouver Conservatives will meet October 14 to select their candidate to contest the provincial by-election occasioned by Hon. Ian Mackenzie's withdrawal to the Federal field. It is understood the by-election itself, which requires only about ten days' of formal notice, will be held before November 1.

Seven Filipinos In California Are Killed By Train

Salinas, Calif., Sept. 11.—Seven unidentified Filipinos were killed at a crossing two miles south of here today when their automobile was struck by a southern Pacific passenger train.

The Filipinos, employed on a ranch here, were driving to work in a small sedan, when the accident occurred. Witnesses said the driver apparently attempted to beat the train to the crossing, driving directly in its path.

The impact demolished the car and hurled its occupants into a ditch beside the tracks. The train was the Southern Pacific Coaster, northbound from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

TRANSCANADA MOTOR TOUR

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Confident he will complete his Transcanada motor trip in record time, F. Needham reached Ottawa yesterday in his powerful roadster. He left Halifax last week with Vancouver his goal, the first man to attempt a coast-to-coast motor tour over Canadian territory.

The former Edmonton newspaper man raced out of the capital yesterday evening and headed for Sudbury. Somewhere beyond that northern Ontario point his real difficulties will begin, for the traveled highway ends near there and he must blaze his own trail through heavy timberlands and rock hills.

Robert Dollar and Wife Celebrate Anniversary

Will Commence Another Honeymoon to the Orient; Give Recipes for Happiness

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Captain Robert Dollar, eighty-six, dean of North American shipping men, and Mrs. Dollar, seventy-eight, to-day celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary by giveng their recipes for mutual happiness.

"Keep her out of business, her place is in the home," the white-haird old man, whose name is as familiar to Chinese coolies as to the leaders of American finance, said and smiled across the table to the little woman, who seemingly had no fault to find with the fiat.

"Don't be fancy; plain things are the direct route to happiness," she said.

Sunday they leave on "another honeymoon," their thirty-second visit to the Far East.

DOLLAR'S NINE RULES

The other nine rules on Captain Dollar's formula for keeping a wife happy are:

Maintain a bank account, start it early, strive, make your nucleus for the future.

Own your own home, even if it is humble at the beginning.

Raise the family early, it binds the home ties and keeps one out of mischief.

Never drink intoxicating liquors.

Be honest, sincere and scrupulously straight.

Be kind, generous and devoted to each other.

Be thoughtful.

Always think of her welfare.

Be cheerful, optimistic, be happy yourself, be a tireless worker.

Keep regular hours at work and at home.

The remainder of the "Dollar rules" was voiced by Mrs. Dollar as follows:

Be economical, save his money.

Be a good housekeeper, be neat, clean and tidy.

Be his best friend—his companion.

Be persistent, struggle for and with him.

Be kind and thoughtful.

Be unfaltering in religious belief.

Be tender and devoted to the family. Cook wholesome meals for him, keep him healthy.

PILOT'S LOOK OUT

Aorangi, docked Victoria 2.30 p.m. from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu.

Emma Alexander, due Victoria from California ports, 8.30 p.m.

Heuraki, due William Head for Vancouver, from Australia 5 p.m.

Coast Liner Is Due Early This Evening

Making one of her fastest trips this year, the Pacific Steamship Company's liner Emma Alexander will dock at the Rithet piers this evening at 8.30 o'clock from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco, according to wireless advice reaching Leslie Pelling, acting local agent, this morning from Capt. G. A. Harris, master of the ship.

Aboard the Emma is a full passenger list, including sixty-five passengers who will disembark at this part. The greater number of these are for Vancouver and they will transfer to the inner harbor to board the Princess Elizabeth which sails at midnight for the mainland port. The Emma also has eighty tons of general cargo. She will proceed to Seattle at midnight, being due at the Sound port to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock.

It has been announced in Victoria that the liner Dorothy Alexander will take a winter sailing from Seattle and Victoria during the winter months, after the H. F. Alexander has been taken off the Seattle-California route in which she has been operating all summer. The Dorothy will call at Victoria both southbound and northbound. She will sail on Wednesdays, but no definite schedule has been released yet.

Princess Victoria Tied Up For Winter

The Princess Elaine has returned to service on the Vancouver-Nanaimo route after being overhauled, cleaned and painted in the Esquimalt drydock. She was down two days. Her place was taken by the Princess Victoria which is now in Victoria for the winter months. She is tied up at the Bellevile Street docks and will remain idle until next spring after her first season on the newly-inaugurated Vancouver-Seattle direct run.

FOREIGN SHIPS BECOME POPULAR

United States Citizens Enjoy Trips Up Coast on Ships With Lawful Bars

An unusual development of passenger traffic between California and Vancouver is said by transportation men to be partly due to the fact that United States citizens are averse to traveling on vessels where they have to have their liquor served surreptitiously.

According to the United States laws it is illegal to have liquor on board vessels under the United States flag. There is no regular coastwise service of Canadian or British vessels plying between California and Vancouver, but there are now a number of steamer lines, Danish, Swedish, German, Dutch, French, Italian, and British serving Europe and this coast, that have comfortable but limited passenger accommodations.

These ships, in the past year, have all felt the unusual development of a passenger traffic between Los Angeles and San Francisco, and Victoria and Vancouver.

On most of the British, German and other ships with passenger accommodation, arriving here in the last few months, there have been parties of Californians with their cars. These parties number from ten to twenty, and they join the ships for the cruise up coast, motoring then on the mainland or Vancouver Island, and returning homeward by the Pacific Highway.

Fish Ship Is Blamed For Crash

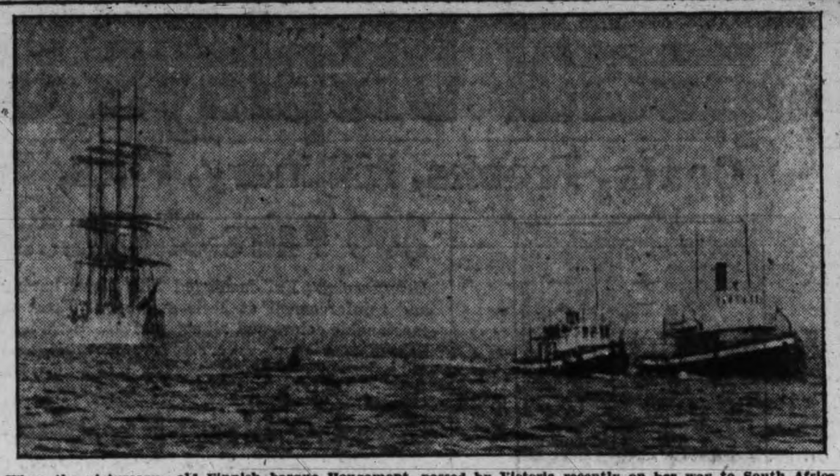
San Francisco, Sept. 11.—The Seattle fishing schooner Orient suddenly swerved across the bow of the freighter Admiral Nulton as the Nulton was about to pass her and was rammed and sunk with the loss of ten men in the Strait of Georgia, officers of the Nulton told United States steamboat inspectors here. The officers, who revealed their version of the tragedy for the first time in public, will be heard again Thursday by the Federal investigators. They agreed with statements of the three survivors of the Orient's crew that the weather was clear. But the Orient's survivors were in the cabin of their little ship and could give no more information of importance at the recent hearing in Seattle than that their ship's lights were in order and that they heard no warning blasts.

As explanation of the mysterious accident, the Nulton's officers said the two vessels were proceeding southward and that the Orient suddenly turned across the Nulton's bow just as the latter vessel had drawn abreast. The big steamship reversed her engines, they said, but not in time to prevent a collision. They said the Orient's lights had been visible for a distance of four or five miles.

Seattle, Sept. 11.—United States Steamboat Inspectors Donald S. Ames and Thomas Short Tuesday completed taking testimony of survivors of the Seattle fishing schooner Orient, sunk recently in British Columbia waters when she was rammed by the steamship Admiral Nulton. The evidence will be sent to United States Steamboat Inspectors Frank A. Turner and Joseph P. Dolan in San Francisco. Turner and Dolan, who have been taking testimony from officers of the Admiral Nulton, will piece the testimony together and decide who was to blame. The collision cost the lives of ten fishermen.

Edward Landsmes and Alfred Ellingson of Yashon, two of the three survivors of the Orient, testified at yesterday's session of the investigation, which lasted from 1.30 p.m. until 4 p.m. They were asleep in the little ship's cabin when the crash came and narrowly escaped from death. Harold Hansen, third survivor, was on watch in the engine room. The testimony of the three men substantiated the evidence given in San Francisco by officers of the Admiral Nulton that the Orient was headed across the bows of the big freighter when she was struck on her port quarter and sunk.

A RARE SIGHT SELDOM SEEN AROUND VICTORIA



When the picturesque old Finnish barque Hougomont passed by Victoria recently on her way to South Africa with a parcel of British Columbia timber she was on her last voyage, for when she next returns to Finland she will be scrapped. She is shown in the above picture in tow of tugs Burrard Chief and Island Comet on her way to Cape Flattery and the breezes of the open Pacific where she spread her snowy sails and headed off for southern climes.

Freighter Loads Big Wheat Cargo For Orient Ports

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Taking a half and half oil fuel supply, in preference to all oil, Ss. Chief Capilano, Captain John Kerr, will sail this week for Shanghai with the largest cargo of grain ever shipped from the port. The great vessel, third largest freighter in the world, will have approximately 14,000 tons of wheat on board.

The ship, fitted for either fuel oil or coal, will use coal from the Comox mines for half of the voyage, this action being brought about by the policy of the Chief Line, Mr. A. B. Graham, manager, to favor British Columbia business whenever possible. The order for this fuel, about 800 tons, means considerable money for miners of Comox.

H. P. Plommer, manager for Wellington-Comox Agencies, to-day stated that if other ships followed this lead, it would go a long way toward solving the slackness of business now observed at the mines.

Princess Norah To Take Beatty Party On Trip

Relieving the steamer Princess Norah, which is being prepared to make a special trip around Vancouver Island next week with E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and his party of directors and eastern business men, the Princess Mary will sail from the Belleville Street piers at eleven o'clock to-night for ports along the West Coast of the Island as far north as Port Alice. The Mary will have a capacity cargo and a good list of passngers, including several round trip tourists. The Mary will also take the September 21 sailing to the coast after which the Princess Maquinna will be commissioned for that service.

The Princess Norah will sail from Victoria about September 18 with Mr. Beatty's party aboard. She will be gone four or five days and calls will be made at the principal industrial centres on both the east and west coasts. No schedule or definite itinerary has as yet been released.

BROMLEY FLIGHT DELAYED

Sambongi, Japan, Sept. 11.—Because of a minor typhoon and heavy fogs reported in the region of the Kurile Islands, Harold L. Bromley to-day postponed until Saturday the projected take-off of his and Harold Gatty's plane on a non-stop flight to Tacoma.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS SOCIETY SEEKING FUNDS

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The Central executive of the League of Nations Society in Canada met here Wednesday for consideration of the report of a special committee appointed last June to survey the policy of the society with regard to financial operations and activities in all divisions of the work. After the meeting it was announced some of the resultant recommendations would be acted on immediately, but several others, particularly those involving constitutional changes, must await action of the 1931 general executive.

One recommendation of the report which will be carried out is that a delegation wait on the government at the earliest possible date, seeking an increase in the grant to the society. The president of the organization, Dr. H. M. Tory, will be a member of the delegation.

A committee of three was appointed to interview Sir Henry Thornton and seek permission to use the Canadian National Railways' Dominion-wide radio hook-up for the purpose of broadcasting through the country addresses on League activities soon to be delivered by prominent public men.

Vessels Discharge Pilchard Oil Here

Two ships were at the Ogden Point piers yesterday discharging pilchard oil into special Canadian National cars. They were the Canadian National freighter Canadian Farmer which had three carloads of the fish oil, and the Canadian Packing Corporation's vessel Amlac, which had 36,000 gallons. The Farmer proceeded to Vancouver at 7 o'clock, and the Amlac left at 5 o'clock in the afternoon on her return to the West Coast.

Another ship sailing last night from Ogden Point was the Norwegian motorship Bronxville which departed at 7 o'clock for Chemainus, after loading 880,000 feet of Vancouver Island timber here for Boston and New York.

COURT RULES TAXES ARE TO BE PAID ON YACHTS

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Personal property taxes on the yachts Tamar and Daphrone must be paid by Roy W. Ginn, Vancouver lawyer, to the Attorney-General of British Columbia, who claimed $322, according to a county court judgment of Judge Cayley. The award is for an amount less than the original claim, but the exact figure has not been determined. It will be in the neighborhood of $300.

Mr. Ginn in his defence pleaded that during the period 1920 to 1928, when he owned the Tamar and Daphrone, they, by virtue of a warrant of the Lords Commissioners of Admiralty, flew the Royal Naval Reserve ensign and thereby became Royal Naval reserve ships. On that ground, it was contended the ships were not liable to taxation.

Exemption from taxation was also urged for Royal Vancouver Yacht Club craft.

The defendant further pleaded the Provincial Taxation Act was ultra vires in so far as it imposed taxes on vessels which were registered under the Merchant Shipping Act and the Canadian Shipping Act.

However, liability was mainly fought out on the issue that the claim had been compromised by the Crown some years ago in a previous action which came to trial in county court before Judge Grant, when no evidence was adduced and the action was dismissed.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—With Captain William R. Meyer on the bridge, the South Seas liner Ventura, which rescued passengers and crew of the liner Tahiti just before that vessel foundered off Rarotonga, sailed from here to-day for Sydney by way of Honolulu.

Chief Engineer Claude J. Knudson was not aboard the Ventura when she sailed. He has been detached to handle the Maloic on her round-the-Pacific cruise, and it is understood he will go east at the end of the cruise and bring out the first of the two Matson ships now building on the Atlantic coast.

With a list of 475 passengers in all classes and a silk cargo valued at $2,500,000, the Japanese liner Tatsuta Maru arrived here to-day from the Orient by way of Honolulu.

A wireless from the vessel said the liner bucked heavy weather between Yokohama and Honolulu, but since leaving the islands conditions have been mild.

In addition to the silk the Tatsuta is bringing $50,000 in gold yen.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Sept. 11.—The Washington customs districts imports totaled $10,886,587 in July, leading all coast districts, but was considerably lower than the July, 1929, total for the Washington district of $17,149,728, Department of Commerce statistics released here showed yesterday.

Export figures for Washington were $5,576,496 in July, compared with $11,381,094 in July, 1929. The Los Angeles district led in exports for July with $10,789,562, and the San Francisco district was second with $10,046,864. San Francisco was second in imports with $9,404,743.

German scientists have developed ultra-short rays for radio purposes that vibrate almost as rapidly as the infra-red rays of light.

HERE TO-DAY FROM ANTIPODES

which reached the William Head quarantine station at 1 o'clock this afternoon and came alongside the Rithet piers about an hour later from Sydney, Auckland, Suva and Honolulu. There were only 230 passengers aboard the liner this voyage, several of whom, however, disembarked here. For Victoria the ship had eighty tons of general cargo, including New Zealand butter and frozen mutton for local merchants. The vessel had a good voyage from Honolulu, docking here nearly twenty-four hours ahead of schedule. Dense fog off the coast last night prevented her from reaching quarantine at 11 o'clock this morning, as the captain first advised the local office.

Fur Coats Are Longer

And More Luxurious Than Ever!

Nothing is more becoming, cosier or more satisfying for fall and winter wear than a good Fur Coat. And this season Dame Fashion is more than ever generous—giving the beautiful large cape shawl collar, deep loose cuffs and a longer coat than we have had for many years.

Though the straight-line garment is popular as ever, yet there is an allowable trend to a slight fitting and the effect of this is pleasing and feminine.

Dainty, feminine and modern, too, are the linings in allover designs and plain crepes in artistic finish.

Mentioned are a few of our popular lines:

Side-cut Muskrat Coat, back collar and cuffs; slightly-flared style with crepe linings $150.00
Back Muskrat Coat, self collar and cuffs; silk crepe lined ... $195.00
Hudson Seal Coats, Kolinsky collar and cuffs $395.00
Hudson Seal Coats, skunk collar and cuffs; silk crepe lined ... $315.00

The Felts are strikingly different, each individual Hat presenting new ideas—the double brim, intricate manipulation, cushion brims and both small and larger brim styles. The Chenille Berets are in rich colorings and you will discover hitherto unsuspected possibilities in them when you place them well back on the head and to one side, with a bow or a loop nestling into your neck line. The Velvet Turbans are the softest and "cutest" little Hats. Tricky piecings fit them to the back of the head. They are shown in navy, brown, monet and black. All these, and many more are most moderately priced at $5.95

Youthful Poet Burned All His First Poetry

It was a cold, crisp New Year's Day. James Thomson stood before the blazing fireplace in the little thatched cottage in which he lived. In his arm was a bundle of papers, and he was throwing them piece by piece into the fireplace, watching each one curl up into a blackened crisp, an odd little smile on his lips.

He had nearly finished buring the pile when his father came into the room. "Why, son, what are you doing?" he asked, watching the boy in surprise.

"Burning poetry, all the poems I wrote last year," answered the boy promptly, throwing another piece on the flames.

"Why, why are you doing that?"

"Because I mean to write much better poetry this year, and none of what I did last year is worth saving."

John Thomson, the poet, was born in England, September 11, 1700. One of his most famous poems is "Rule. Britannia."

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE

Quick Medical Attention Vital In Cases of Meningitis

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Epidemic meningitis has been known as a distinct disease for more than 125 years. Now it is known that isolated cases are almost always present in any large community, and that at various rather irregular intervals epidemics occur.

Just why epidemics occur when they do is not known. Most often they develop when large numbers of people are crowded together in unsanitary circumstances, but sometimes they arise without this condition.

The germ that causes meningitis was found within ten years of the time when Pasteur first established the germ cause of diseases. Since that time the investigators have found that there are various types of the meningitis germ just as there are various types of the pneumonia germ and indeed, just as there are various types of human beings.

This fact is very important because the specific serum that controls the poisons of one type of meningitis germ may be quite inefficient against a germ of a different type. Thus during the World War some serums were found inefficient against meningitis in certain French camps, but the trial of a different serum resulted in prompt success in controlling the disease.

The meningitis germ is probably transferred from one person to another by droplets from the nose and throat.

The symptoms of meningitis arise from the changes that the germs and their poison or toxin produce in the tissues of the nervous system. Previously, however, there is a period of invasion when the infectious material and the toxin circulate through the body. Hence there are the usual symptoms of such invasion including sore throat, dullness, fever, chills, rapid pulse, and general soreness over the body. There is also a rash of pin-point sized red spots or even large spots over the body.

In the stage when the infection has spread to the nervous system the patients have severe pain, bursting headache, vomiting and even delirium and convulsions. The physician makes his diagnosis not only from the history of the case and the symptoms, but also by obtaining specimens of the spinal fluid, and by studying its condition and the germs that it may contain.

If meningitis is diagnosed promptly and serum treatment given within 48 hours, only about 15 per cent of the patients die. If there is delay beyond this 20 per cent die. In general throughout the country about 50 per cent die. The lesson from these statistics is clear. Beyond the deaths from meningitis is the danger of the secondary complications with permanent deafness or crippling.

Here then is a disease about which much is known, indeed, almost sufficient to wipe out the disease entirely if science could completely command the situation. Nevertheless cases continue to occur due to the fact that perfect control is not possible, and due also perhaps to the fact that the germs, being living organisms, change their natures from time to time as does man himself.

Hill and Hill picked up Kingsman soon after turning for home. Selma Barbee lacked speed. Scratches—4352 Maurice Mulcahy, 4355 Slipper to Slipper, 4360 Jean Naveile, 4361 Clarimonde Hope. POLICE HUNT RANCH OWNER FOR MURDER

E. Smith Killed in Chilcotin District of B.C.; C. Spencer Is Charged

Accused Man Has Been in Poor Health; Mind Believed Unbalanced

150-Mile-House, B.C., Sept. 11.—Charged with having murdered Edward Smith, storekeeper, and seriously wounded Walter H. Stoddart, foreman of the Deer Creek Ranch, C. Spencer, one of the largest ranch owners in the Chilcotin country, is being pursued through wild bush country by provincial police and a posse of fifty men.

According to the police, Spencer, with a party of men was loading a light delivery truck at the ranch yesterday when he seized a gun and shot Smith dead.

It is declared he then turned the weapon on Stoddart, who was badly wounded, but managed to get into the truck and drive three miles from the ranch when the automobile turned over. Stoddart was found some hours later and rushed to a farmhouse, where medical attention was given. Later he was taken to the Williams Lake Hospital, where he is now in a serious condition.

The cause of the attack on the two men has not been learned as Stoddart's condition is such that he cannot talk

IN POOR HEALTH

Police officials state Spencer fled to the bush immediately after the shooting and is still at large. He has been in very poor health for some time and is believed to have become temporarily insane.

Spencer is said to be the best known man in the Chilcotin country, being a pioneer of the district who owns an inland empire. He is classed among the cattle kings of British Columbia. In recent years his purchases of purebred cattle and horses have been on a large scale.

BORDEN'S SPEECH TO LEAGUE IS PEACE PLEA

ACHIEVEMENTS GROW

To-day, in a good wholesome atmosphere of goodwill, understanding and co-operation, the Assembly of the League of Nations was consecrated to the cause of peaceful abitrament and the entronement of right as between nations, he said. The achievements of the league had, indeed, been memorable.

"But in my conception," continued Sir Robert, "the highest service of the League to humanity lies in the mere existence of constant association and co-operation. The nations are here to be trained in a kindergarten of peace and already they have learned many a useful lesson, though there are other and harder lessons still to be learned.

WILL TO PEACE

"It is not yet idle to conceive that the peace of the world may be maintained by force," the Canadian delegate said. "Can we even imagine it may be maintained by treaties and conventions unless behind them lies the will to peace?" We must work for world peace in the domain of the spirit."

Sir Robert recalled the speech made by Aristide Briand, the French statesman at Washington nine years ago, a speech in which M. Briand dwelt on the necessity of moral disarmament as a condition precedent to practical disarmament.

which Mr. Bryan displayed in handling the fly on this visit. In two hours at the end of last week, the big broker landed sixteen spring or cohoes with the fly, one of them weighing as high as fifteen pounds.

On his arrival here from up the Island, Mr. Bryan went into conference with H. E. Boorman, president of the B.C. Bond Corporation, who carry the Logan and Bryan services, and are correspondents here with Branson, Brown and Company for Logan and Bryan. He was introduced to members of the staff of the B.C. Bond Corporation. This afternoon Mr. Bryan is spending with C. L. H. Branson, head of Branson, Brown and Company.

As regards business, Mr. Bryan said he was not bullish on the outlook, believing that the trough of the depression had been passed, with trade and the markets gradually working back up to normal.

Traveling with him are his wife, a private physician and a companion for Mrs. Bryan. They will leave Victoria to-morrow on the start of their return trip to New York.

JUDGE HEARS PHYSICIAN IN LATIMER CASE

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—That Mrs. Helen Oliver, whose complaint resulted in the name of Dr. Victor E. Latimer, sixty-four-year-old Penticton physician, being erased from the register of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, did not on examination here in October, 1929, show or tell of symptoms which would indicate cocaine had been administered to her was the evidence given in Supreme Court to-day by Dr. W. A. Dobson to Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

The judge is hearing Dr. Latimer's appeal for reinstatement.

Dr. Dobson is a specialist in mental and nervous diseases.

According to the finding of the Medical Council, Dr. Latimer made improper advances to Mrs. Oliver between June 3, 1929, and July 31, with the aid of cocaine.

Dr. Dobson stated he would have expected certain symptoms from two months' addiction to cocaine, and he did not find them in Mrs. Oliver's case, nor had she told of any.

Her whole story, which incriminated Latimer, might have been a hallucination, in the opinion of Dr. Dobson.

"She over-emphasized everything," he explained. "I could not tell whether it was hallucination or fact. It might have been hallucination."

He added that she appeared very much under the influence of her husband. She was a case of mental depression, he said.

The New York Times, in a special dispatch from Washington yesterday, said:

"In a note delivered by Hanford MacNider as one of his first official acts as the new Minister to Canada, the United States has asked the Conservative Government of Premier Bennett whether it is prepared to proceed with development of the St. Lawrence waterway, and has suggested the two Governments appoint commissioners for settling the remaining points of difference and negotiating a treaty for carrying out the project.

"The United States was led to move in the matter at this time from the fact that Mr. Bennett, in the recent campaign, criticized the Liberal Government severely for not proceeding with the project.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Miss A. McIlmoyle was appointed stenographer at Victoria College by the school board last night.

Prizes for the winners of the recent Rotary golf tournament were distributed by Reginald Hayward, M.P.P. at the club's luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

The success of the Victoria Rotary softball team, which yesterday defeated Nanaimo 31-7 and then tied Duncan 10-10, in a twin bill, at the up-island grounds, was reported upon by Alex Peden at the club's luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The annual meeting of the Regimental Association of the Fifth (B.C.) Coast Brigade Canadian Artillery will be held in the men's mess room at the Armories on Tuesday, September 16 at 7.30 p.m. All members are urged to attend as matters of importance are to be dealt with.

Rev. R. M. Stevenson, M.A., Ph.D. who is taking the pulpit work at St. Paul's Church, Victoria West, will also take charge of the regular mid-week service. He will speak to-night on "The Book of Jonah." The meeting will commence at 7.30 o'clock. During the succeeding weeks the opening hour will be 8 o'clock. These meetings are open to the public.

Dr. Clem Davies, who has recently returned from touring the European continent, will give a brief address at a meeting of the tourist group of the Chamber of Commerce, Friday, on his observation of conditions at the present time in the United Kingdom, Italy, France and Germany. A suggestion for the beautification and further development of Beacon Hill Park will also be submitted to this meeting for consideration.

Listeners to CFCT at 8.15 o'clock tomorrow evening, immediately following "Elias and Wong," will enjoy an unusual "Victoria Artists' Night," when the concert pianiste and composer, Edna Baiss, will be heard. Miss Baiss will offer a number of her own compositions as well as those by other writers. She will be assisted by Myra Deane-Freeman, soprano soloist, who will contribute four songs. The programme will continue until 9 o'clock.

Official opening of the new Youbou-Cowichan Road, which will give Youbou a direct connection with Victoria, via Duncan, will be made this afternoon, when C. F. Davie, provincial member for Cowichan-Newcastle, will cut the ribbon which at present holds the road closed to traffic. P. Phillip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, will assist at the function in the absence of Hon. N. S. Lougheed, who is at present at Ottawa.

The Friendly Help Association is trying to re-establish in a home a woman with two children, who has been deserted by her husband, and who has been turned out of her present home owing to inability to pay the rent. The most pressing need is for a cook-stove, chairs, a table, and a child's crib, and anyone having such articles for which they have no further use is requested to communicate with the secretary at the Association's rooms, Market Building.

Redemption of four-fifths of unorganized lands on the southern waterfront of Vancouver Island left only fifty-two parcels on the government's hands for disposal at reverted land sales, it was announced by F. J. Sehl, Provincial Collector, to-day. Of these twenty-two were bid for, while the other thirty will revert to the crown if not redeemed within the next year. Approximately fifty persons attended the sale. Great interest was shown in the lots on the Sooke, Otter Point and Colwood waterfronts.

The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Cymrodorion Society will be held on Friday at 8 p.m. in St. David's Hall, 1414 Douglas Street (over Hatt's Hardware). In the unavoidable absence of the president, Fred Williams, who is touring the southern states and eastern Canada taking motion pictures which will be shown at a later date, the chair will be occupied by Mrs. W. Jones, first vice-president. All members are specially requested to be present as important business is on the agenda. A musical programme has been prepared consisting of solos by Mr. Maldwyn Humphries, musical festival gold medalist; Mr. S. James, Mrs. J. C. Williams, and duets by J. Jones and Maurice Thomas.

Rotarians Will Assist Kiwanis In Convention

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club, Wm. Luney thanked the Rotarians for their offers of assistance to the Kiwanis Club during the Pacific Northwest Convention here next week. He asked the Rotarians if they could furnish cars to drive the visitors to Butchart's Gardens next Tuesday afternoon.

U.S. YACHTSMAN SAVES BOAT OFF TRIAL ISLAND

Makes Daring Night Rescue in Rough Sea From Oak Bay Marine Ways

A daring dash in the darkness through high seas and in the face of a strong wind by George Ambrose and the party on his power yacht Metta Mari anchored at the Marine Ways, Oak Bay, last night, resulted in the rescue of C. J. Mylchreest, who was drifting with engine trouble off the south end of Trial Island.

Mr. Ambrose and his friends, including Mrs. Ambrose, D. Campbell, president of the Bellingham Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Campbell were at supper in the Oak Bay Hotel when a signal for help was flashed from Trial Island. Miss Mylchreest, searching for someone with a craft able to weather the rough sea, called at the Oak Bay Hotel and the visiting U.S. Yacht party volunteered their aid.

Miss Mylchreest accompanied the visitors, who were unfamiliar with the waters, particularly at night time, and directed them to Trial Island. At the Island, the lighthouse keeper flashed a torch over the waters to direct them to the boat in trouble and in danger of piling up on the banks. The U.S. yachtsman forced his way through a kelp bed and went dangerously near the rocks in his successful rescue and towed the crippled boat back to the marine ways.

HINTON IS GIVEN COMPLETE CHARGE BY SCHOOL BOARD

Major A. C. Hinton, recently appointed physical instructor for Victoria schools, was placed in complete supervision of the physical training system in city institutions, including the High School, by the School Board last night.

Major Hinton will be asked by the board to bring in recommendations for the remodeling of the physical instruction system as applied to the cadet corps, although it is understood this move will not be undertaken for some time, as at present Major Hinton is busy preparing his plans for school year.

ROTARY PAGEANT PROGRESS TOLD

Progress of the Rotary Pageant of Nations to be staged at the Armories on September 24, 25, 26 and 27 was told by T. P. McConnell at the club's luncheon to-day.

He spoke of the fine spirit being shown by the cast, and said that the show would be a worthwhile effort. An appeal was made for goods to be disposed at the show.

Mr. McConnell also noted the enthusiasm being shown by the Rotarians in the venture.

In closing, he reminded the gathering that the funds would be devoted to the Solarium and other worthy objectives.

UNEMPLOYMENT DISCUSSED BY EX-SOLDIERS

Approve Resolutions of Trades and Labor Council; Reports Submitted

Unemployment of ex-service men, particularly those handicapped through war disabilities and the difficulty they have in securing any of the few jobs that are available was discussed at a meeting of the Pro Patria branch of the Canadian Legion last night.

It was felt that much could be done to relieve the serious situation by firms in the city who are employing married women, whose husbands are also in employment. A resolution was passed supporting the action of the Trades and Labor Council in this regard.

The sick committee reported many visits to the hospitals and homes of ex-service men, several of whom are confined to their beds for long periods through their war disabilities. Distribution of smokes and comforts were made to them. A supply of smokes was also sent to the ex-service men confined in the mental home on Wilkinson Road.

Seven members were welcomed, and several other applications are under consideration.

During the meeting a comrade reported that through the joint efforts of the legion and the Soldier Advisor, he had been granted a pension with retroactive pension, after having previously urged his appeals without success.

Votes of condolence were passed to two comrades who had suffered the loss of relatives recently.

Comrade A. E. Turner was elected as a member of the executive council.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—Wheat: Both the Canadian and U.S. Government reports were construed bearish not only on wheat, but on the coarse grains, the estimated figures on production being larger than expected. This fact, combined with weakness in Liverpool and a negligible export business gave the wheat market a heavy tone to-day and prices declined 2⅜c from the previous close, making new lows across the board.

There was a reaction in the late trade, but there was very little going on except buying against the daily bids and a little covering up by early sellers, while offerings were rather scarce during the last hour. There was some spreading between the different months but the market was mostly a local affair, with Chicago doing very little.

There was fair demand from shippers for cash wheat, No. 2 nor. being most wanted, with spreads on this grade fractionally better and others unchanged. Offerings were not pressing for sale. Export flour trade was quiet to-day, but some good business has been done recently which will keep the mills running full time for the next two weeks.

The day's news was mostly bearish. Liverpool closed 1⅝ to 2 lower when due unchanged on Winnipeg. Black Sea shipments were 2,520,000 this week, which half of this amount being Russia, while the barley exports from the same ports reached the large total of 5,849,000 bushels. Country marketings in the west yesterday were 5,535,000 against 3,439,000 a year ago.

Do not look for any drastic break in wheat, but supplies are very large in North America, with the possibility of around 800,000,000 to be marketed after allowing for seed, feed, etc., this probably will be more than the world will take during the current year, to say nothing of surplus supplies in other countries. Winnipeg futures closed 1¼ to 1½ lower, right on the bids. Would sell wheat on moderate upturns as long as export sales remain as small as they are.

Coarse grains—There was no feature to these markets, there being no foreign demand whatever, while a moderate trade only is passing with eastern Canada. The government report indicates a large crop in the west, especially in oats. There was considerable selling early, with the market very week, but part of the early losses were recovered.

(By Branson, Brown & Co., Limited)

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Wheat: The reaction of trade here and abroad to the government reports of this country and Canada was of the discouragement, apparently, prices for wheat declined sharply at Liverpool, Winnipeg and Chicago, hedging pressure coupled with further scattered liquidation resulting in new low prices for the crop for all deliveries, except September, however, there appeared to be good support on the decline and the break to new lows did not uncover any great number of stop losses.

The government report showed a total of 838,000,000 with 362,000,000 estimated for western Canada by the Dominion government. These figures were not surprising. North America has plenty wheat, but so far as the rest of the world is concerned the stocks are not heavy and a good demand is expected all through the season.

Canadian shippers apparently are under the necessity of selling regardless of price, and Europe is taking advantage of this necessity. Until enough of the wheat is hedged or sold direct to relieve the tension in Canada, the Canadian conditions will dominate the market. In this country there is a possible way out for owners of cash wheat in the broadening consumption of wheat as feed.

Russia again appears to be falling down on its promises and threats to ship a lot of wheat, exports being only 1,240,000 for the week. India shipped 72,000, and is also selling much less than expected. Clearances 590,000 from Atlantic and Gulf. Technically the market is in good shape for a rally.

Wheat Tumbles Again; Business Confident of New Argentine Rulers

Wheat prices in Winnipeg slumped into new low ground in all months to-day, following yesterday's crop report which showed the yields holding up well in threshing returns for most parts of the country. October wheat sold as low as 81⅛.

New lows for the year were also made in the price of oats, barley and rye in Winnipeg.

In Chicago corn broke two cents a bushel and December and May wheat broke into new low ground. September wheat, however, which is cash, resisted tumbling through the bottom.

Liverpool and Buenos Aires prices brokes sharply to-day.

Russell's reports to-day indicated a very limited foreign demand for North American wheat overnight.

Broomhall issued the following statement on the Argentine situation:

"The provisional government in the Argentine is generally considered to be very capable, according to commercial ideas, so that the exchange rate of the pesos is likely to improve. This, however, may cause a withdrawal of C.I.F. offers, as growers already consider the values of wheat and corn low enough.

Percy White, new president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day said:

"Neither the Canadian nor the United States Government report can in any way be construed as bullish, as all estimates are slightly over trade expectations."

"Paris, Sept. 11—Ministry of Agriculture officials suggested that the government may be obliged to increase the legal maximum of the foreign wheat mixed with French wheat in making flour. The wet summer decreased the French crop and also damaged the grain, and it might be necessary to increase the foreign wheat proportion from the present ten per cent to fifteen or twenty per cent. It was considered possible that Argentine and the United States would furnish the necessary additional wheat of which about 600,000 tons may be required.

Washington, Sept. 11—More than three-quarters of a billion bushels of corn were burned up by the drought during July and August, as shown in the official report issued by the Department of Agriculture.

The corn crop is now foremost at 1,983,000,000 bushels, which is 10.4 per cent less than the 1929 production and 26.6 per cent below the five-year average. Yield of corn per acre is 19.5, around the lowest since 1894.

BORDEN'S AIDED BY DECREASE IN MILK PRODUCTION

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day lacked the aggressive character of earlier this week. Trading dragged throughout the day and the close was spotty, though the tone remained firm.

The bright spot was provided by the oils. Imperial Oil had an active day, taken in comparison with the rest of the list, rising above 22. B. A. Oil made fractional headway and Supertest ordinary came out in greater volume to score a gain of between 1 and 2 points.

Brazilian was down almost a point at the close, but volume of sales was limited.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—In view of the fact that Borden's has absorbed several Canadian dairy organizations, particularly the City Dairy Company, the affairs of the American corporation are closely scanned by Canadians.

It is understood that Borden's is one company that appears to be favored by recent economic changes. While it might seem that the drop in the production of milk would hurt the company, the opposite is true, since it will enable the company to dispose of a large inventory of evaporated and condensed milk at satisfactory prices.

In the early part of the year Borden's is obliged, under its contracts, to purchase large quantities of milk from the farmers. Its surplus it puts into "canned" milk. Another factor in the earning power of the company is the ice cream business. During the past year, Borden's has acquired a large number of ice cream companies in New York and other points throughout the United States and Canada. The unusually hot summer has produced a great demand for ice cream despite depressed business conditions. The acquisition of a large dairy company in Canada also should add to the profits of the company.

Montreal Market Finance Features

The Street is beginning to guess as to what showing will be indicated in Brazilian's August earning statement, Miller, Court & Co. say to-day in their financial counsel from Montreal. It will be recalled that in July the net increase was less than 12,000, this being effected on a falling off in gross, which was more than offset by a reduction in operating expenses.

The movement in Montreal Power common is based upon various factors which do not yet appear altogether in evidence. Yet the buying seems to be for very substantial accounts and a considerable amount of stock is passing off the boards.

The swing in National Breweries to a new high on the rally has been looked forward to for some time. The company's business this year has run along eminently satisfactory lines with volume higher and expenses less. It is felt that earnings will prove very satisfactory and that the company will be able to present also a most interesting and strong balance sheet.

There is a better market noted for Gurds which struck a new high on the movement. Dominion Bridge acted rather well, but moved narrowly.

In the balance of the list various price actions were suggested for the general market conditions. These stocks which have been discounting increased tariff for the most hold firmly.

NICKEL, SMELTERS AND BRAZILIAN ARE ANALYZED

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Directors of the St. Lawrence Corporation have extended to October 9 the date for exchange of shares of the Brompton St. Lawrence Paper and Lake St. John shares into those of the St. Lawrence Corporation.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Craig, Luther and Irving, in their Monthly Bulletin for September, review the position of three of Montreal's leading securities, namely International Nickel, Consolidated Mining and Smelting and Brazilian Traction. In commenting on the outlook for these three issues, they say:

Nickel: It has been reported that the company's sales in August have shown improvement. Although actual results for the third quarter may not be substantially better than those for the preceding three months, it is anticipated that the latter part of the year should be more favorable; much depends, of course, on the extent of the recovery in general industrial conditions. For some time past we have emphasized the long-range rather than the near-term prospects for the company's common stock. While it is impossible to forecast at what point the downward trend will be permanently arrested, the stock is obviously selling now at a more reasonable level, and there exist several factors which warrant its consideration for the long pull. The company is strong financially, possesses properties of undoubted value, occupies a dominant position in the nickel industry and is becoming an increasingly important factor in the production of copper. We believe that the stock offers excellent prospects of enhancement in value over a period of years.

Smelters: The strong finances of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company will stand it in good stead at this time of depression. Its ownership of the world's greatest zinc mine, its widespread interests in other mineral properties of great potential value and its recent entry into the fertilizer industry are factors which endow the stock with more than ordinary speculative possibilities. The stock is occasionally subject to wide fluctuations in market value, but any definite improvement in metal quotations should have a beneficial effect.

Brazilian: The common stock of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company has withstood the severe selling pressure in recent weeks better than might have been expected. On earnings to date the dividend is adequately covered, and there is no question of the strength of the company's finances. Few public utility investments offer more promising long-term prospects. The present problems of Brazil are admittedly acute, but inasmuch as it has emerged successfully from past crises and is steadily tending to erect a sounder economic position, we think the future may be regarded with some confidence.

NORDON LISTED ON N.Y. CURB RISES OVER 1.00

Nordon to-day was formally listed on the New York Curb and trading in it started there.

This widened trading resulted in a better than 10-point rise in the stock to over 1.00.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—A somewhat reactionary tone was evident in the Toronto mining market from the opening to-day, profit-taking as a result of yesterday's improvement partially wiping out some of the recent gains.

Lake Shore, Teck Hughes and Kirkland Lake Gold continued to receive favorable attention and registered small advances, and Dome, Howey and McIntyre held steady at last night's levels.

International Nickel and Noranda were heavy, closing with fractional losses in both cases. Falconbridge and Sudbury Basin lost 25 and 18.

Oils were a mixed group, Home Oil slumped badly all through the period. Ajax Ali, Alberta Pacific, Calmont and Dalhousie displayed recessions ranging from 8 to 12 points. Nordon was active and up 10 at the close.

Calumet-Hecla Dividend Dropped

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Sept. 11.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day:

DIP OVER-HEADED UP

"What expectations were voiced here for a two-hour dip yesterday found a market which would only allow their partial realization, and while there may be some carry-over of the closing recession into to-day's opening prices, hardly think it will run beyond the first half hour. In any event you better not lose too much time around the opening before you complete what buying you did not do late yesterday, as we are in a market which is showing almost complete immunity to adverse statements, even though they take on the semi-conservative complexion of the one emanating from the country's leading automobile executive which affected neither the market nor the individual stock involved.

"The unfilled tonnage report is another type of apparently adverse news which is being readily absorbed by the market which, as it was stated here two weeks ago, would have to pass through further dividend suspensions, bad earnings statements and more distressing trade situations but which could be expected to simply hesitate at their appearances and, in a later stage, totally ignore them as factors. I believe we will see many more of such announcements, but that you will also see them practically, if not totally ignored, as it becomes plainly realized that they represent what companies have passed through rather than what they are headed for.

"In the meantime, car loadings have come through with what is perhaps the most bullish announcement on business we have seen this year, the increase of approximately 44,000 cars, showing that the week ending August 30 was one in which business had already turned. The figure issued next Wednesday morning will take in the holiday week ending September 6 and will, of course, show a decline, but following that think it will be a matter of but one or at the most two weeks before we will be presented with the million-car future which has not been seen at any time this year.

"Brokers loans may show some increase to-night, but in a broad sense they are so thoroughly liquidated that neither this, nor a series of increases make much difference.

COMMENT

"With the merchandising stocks entering their season of peak earnings, expect Woolworth, Macy and Best & Co. to reflect marketwise a strong revival of year-end sales.

"General Motors is hesitating long enough to give you a chance to buy it before it gets too high.

"Continue to purchase the market leaders, Food and Utility stocks pointed out in the last few days. Expect a rather rapid advance in Westinghouse Electric to start before the week is over."

SUGAR

New York, Sept. 11.—Raw sugar quiet and unchanged early to-day at 3.13 for spots, duty paid, with no sales reported.

There was no change in the refined situation, with fine granulated listed at 4.35 by one refiner and 4.45 by all others.

HOME RECOVERS AFTER RECESSION

Vancouver, Sept. 11.—Market reaction during the forenoon session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange was normal.

The dip of Home Oil to a point as low at 3.25 might have been expected, and the recovery to 3.45 and 3.50 proved that the stock met with support at the lower level.

A.P. Consolidated dropping with Home as well as under the influence of the Duvernay well abandonment, traded around 52, and Calmont was also down below the previous day with sales at 67 and 68. Dalhousie sold at 70 and Fabyan was strong at 4, with official statements that eastern financing has been secured and an option taken on Turner Valley holdings.

Mayland sold at 70 and 72. Reports to-day said that Mayland No. 2 is expected to be a good producer, and has settled down to about 14,000,000 feet of gas daily.

Vanalta, earning good money, is steady around 24, and Amalgamated and Crow's Nest were comparatively inactive at 13 and 15 respectively. Nordon was very strong selling at 1.04 and 1.05, against 90 at the close the day before. C. and E. brought 68, a drop of 7 points from the previous day. Royalite was steady with sales at 20.00.

The mines did not show any extensive action, although Premier, paying the usual dividend this quarter, sold at 1.04 and 1.05. Big Missouri sold at 60 to 62.

Premier Gold will pay the usual dividend of six cents a share for this quarter, it was announced to-day by Miller, Court & Co., on reports from the company. The dividend will be paid on October 4 to stock of record September 15.

It was also announced that Fabyan Petroleum is financed now and that their operations at Wainwright will be speedily commenced once more.

Stewart, B.C., Sept. 11.—The Premier Gold Mining Company suspended development activities on the Silverado property last Friday, after working since last spring. Reasons for the shut-down have not been determined, but it is currently reported that the company is planning to inaugurate a diamond drilling campaign on the property.

Stocks engaged in a period of technical correction to-day following the substantial gains of the last several weeks, the Wall Street Journal says in its final edition this afternoon.

In attaining new high ground since the drastic decline that culminated June 24, the principal industrials have pushed ahead recently with no reaction worthy of the name.

This situation undoubtedly caused some impairment of internal conditions and created a feeling in responsible quarters that the outlook for higher prices would be improved if time were allowed pivotal share to digest the extensive upswing from the August lows. This attitude was translated into considerable profit-taking that brought about moderate recessions from the recent highs in Steel, American Can, Woolworth, General Motors, Allied Chemical and other stocks prominent on the upside since the recovery set in.

STRENGTHENS CONFIDENCE

Instead of dampening bullish sentiment the action of the leaders on this setback served to increase confidence regarding the fundamentals soundness of the market. After reactions of just about the proportions called for on technical grounds had occurred, offerings of pivotal stocks dried up and the list settled down into a narrow range.

ACTIVITY DECREASES

Trading activity fell off substantially, dropping to levels that represented a reduction of nearly 1,000,000 shares from the rate recently maintained when prices were advancing. This reduction in the turnover strengthened the recently growing conviction that the trend favored the side of rising prices and brought excellent buying into standard shares on concessions.

No change took place in the character of the market as the afternoon wore on. Fluctuations in Steel and other backbone issues were mostly confined to a fractional area, with small declines immediately followed by equally limited rallies.

While the expected lowering of the official call rate from the 2½ per cent level did not take place, large offerings were again available outside at 2 per cent."

MERCHANDISING STOCKS FIRM

J. I. Case was under pressure, apparently because of the patent suit instituted against the company by Ludlum Steel.

There were several firm to strong features in the market, among them being several of the leading merchandising shares, based apparently on the evidences of pickup in retail sales since the middle of August, which constitutes at present the chief symptom of business recovery.

Air reduction also was firm. The company has shown an improvement in business since the middle of July and it is now believed that railroad shops, important consumers of company's welding product, will reopen this month to repair an increasing number of bad order cars.

GILLETTE RECOVERS

Gillette attracted attention by its sharp recovery, rumors being that completion of arrangement for merger with Autostrop are near completion. Another rumor had it that Gillette is contemplating a new model of razor.

ABSORBS PROFIT-TAKING

Wall Street Mirror to-day issued the following to its clients:

"The stock market once again has had to absorb profit-taking on a large scale. Furthermore it can be said that it has acted very well in the face of the selling. Adverse news regarding dividends and offerings continue to make its appearance but it will be noticed that this news is being ignored for the reason that it has been thoroughly discounted. Further advances will be seen in the market, and the current price level should be used for making purchases. There are some signs of public participation in the market.

SUPER BANK MERGER

"Rumors are once again heard regarding a 'super' bank merger. Also those who have been discussing such declare it will have a stimulating effect marketwise.

TOBACCOS AND RETAIL STORES

"The tobacco issues are still well liked in good quarters. An advance in Lorillard is expected before the close of the week. The short interest in Vanadium has grown to very large proportions and these shorts would like to get in their contracts without bidding up the stock too sharply. Insiders are prepared to bring about a sharp covering movement by these shorts.

"The turn for the better in the retail merchandising is being reflected in the price of stocks. Chicago once again has become quite bullish on Montgomery Ward. The buying in General Foods continues of the very best. The stock is steadily moving ahead close to its previous top for the year."

MAN KILLS WIFE AND ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Log Scaler at Wardner, B.C., Had Mind Unbalance by Losses in Fire

Canadian Press

Cranbrook, B.C., Sept. 11.—Herbert B. Haddon, log scaler at the Wardner Lumber Mills, Wardner, B.C., yesterday evening shot his wife to death in the kitchen of the home of H. H. Moore. Haddon was later found in the garden with his throat cut. He died in a short time.

A note found on Haddon asked Moore to look after his two young children, indicating the act was premeditated.

Mrs. Haddon died almost immediately from two bullets in the chest.

Haddon was one of the losers in a recent fire at Wardner and it is believed that had preyed on his mind, causing him to do the shooting and end his own life.

CHANGE URGED IN FISHERIES CONTROL WORK

Canadian Press

Montreal, Sept 11.—British Columbia, instead of the Federal Government, should control its own fisheries, Hon. S. L. Howe, Commissioner of Fisheries of the Pacific Province, declared in a paper read to-day before the Canadian Fisheries Society. The present situation was that the Province could not control fish until they were caught and brought ashore, Mr. Howe said.

"We in British Columbia pride ourselves on the fact that our fisheries have for more than a decade annually exceeded in value those of any other province in our great Dominion" said Mr. Howe. "We outrank all others in the value of our fishery products. The value of our fisheries in 1928, the last year for which we have complete data for all the provinces, totaled $26,562,000 or forty-eight per cent of Canada's total fishery products for that year, our output in that year exceeded in value that of Nova Scotia, the second in rank with its production of $11,681,995, by $14,880,000, and it also exceeded in value that of all the other provinces combined by $9,756,000.

"The capital invested in the fisheries of British Columbia in 1928 was $32,926,000, or fifty-six per cent of the total capital employed in the fisheries of Canada that year.

"The number of persons engaged in the B.C. fisheries in 1928 was 18,904, or twenty-four per cent of Canada's total of 78,219.

"In other words, in 1928 British Columbia with fifty-six per cent of the capital employed in Canada and but twenty-four per cent of the men engaged in the fisheries of Canada, produced forty-eight per cent of the fishery products of the Dominion. That forcibly displays the value of the British Columbia fisheries.

CANDIDATES NAMED

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 11.—The decisive victory of Ed Benn, former United States marshal for Western Washington, over Mayor Mar[illegible] F. Smith of Hoquiam, in the Re[illegible]n primary election, was revealed by near total figures to-day. With ninety-five out of the country's ninety-seven precincts reported, the figures were Benn, 6,666; Smith, 5,169. Benn will oppose Phil J. Mourant, Democrat, Hoquiam, in the general election. Mourant ran as a sticker candidate and was unopposed in the primaries.

NEW AUSTRALIA BUTTER EXPORT PLAN IS STUDIED

No Ottawa Statement Yet on Canadian Import Advisory Committee

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 11. — Announcement from Australia of a Canadian advisory board to recommend to the Australian Government the amount of butter which Canada could easily absorb from time to time was neither confirmed nor denied by members of the government to-day.

Shipments of butter from Australia to Canada, during recent years at least, have not been regarded as a serious factor in the Canadian market.

A dispatch from Melbourne, Australia, yesterday said:

Regulation of the butter exports of Australia to Canada to prevent injury to the interests of the Canadian dairymen is the goal set by Hon. P. M. Forde, Acting Federal Minister of Markets, according to an interview to-day.

Mr. Forde stated the friendly attitude in Canada toward the increasing of trade relationships with the Commonwealth was much appreciated, and he desired to give assurance the feeling was reciprocated.

Australia, he promised, would control its butter industry so as not to allow exports during the Canadian winter except when licensed by the Minister of Markets.

The Minister of Markets promised he would see to it that only such quantities of Australian butter as were capable of being absorbed easily by Canada would be dispatched. Such quantities would be determined, he said, on the recommendation of the advisory board which would consist of a representative of the Canadian butter distributors and the Australian Trade Commission to Canada.

FEDERATION PLAN IS BEFORE WORLD LEAGUE

Canadian Press

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, told the Assembly of the League of Nations this afternoon that Great Britain hoped any action on the plan of French Foreign Minister Briand for a European federation would be taken only on the authority of the League of Nations.

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, turned his idea for a federation of European states to-day over to the Assembly of the League of Nations in an atmosphere of warm admiration for himself and friendly sympathy for the principle of European economic and political collaboration.

His address propounding the plan was much the same speech he made a year ago when the project was launched from the same rostrum. He attempted no pilotage, no directing, but left it to the nations themselves to establish its definite form.

CANADA NOW ADMITS ONLY TREATY ASIATICS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The complete prohibition of all Asiatic immigration into Canada, except from those countries with which the Dominion has a special treaty, agreement or convention regulating immigration, is decreed in an order-in-council passed August 14 and tabled in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

The order-in-council amends one passed in 1923 under which discretion was given to "the immigration officer in charge" to admit Asiatics who were bona fide agriculturists, laborers, female domestic servants, wives or children under eighteen years of any person legally admitted to and resident in Canada.

A cordial welcome was extended to the new principal, Capt. T. R. Wheadon, who responded, voicing the appreciation of the material evidence in the school of work accomplished by the P.T.A.

The reports of the various committees were read and the past season proved to be one of great activity and undoubtedly a most successful year. The executive and other officers were accorded a hearty vote of thanks for their work.

Okanagan Produce Reaches Victoria

Yesterday's fruit arrivals here include carlots of Okanagan Elberta freestone peaches and Okanagan cantelope. A shipment of Chilliwack potatoes also arrived. These potatoes are of exceptionally good quality, and are selling well. The arrival of the R.M.S. Aorangi this afternoon from the Antipodes brought a considerable amount of fruit and butter to the local markets. In addition to a shipping of New Zealand butter there many cases of Australian oranges.

Canada's Trade Is Greatest On U.S. Foreign List

Washington, Sept. 11.—Canada led the world in foreign trade with the United States in July.

The Commerce Department announced to-day that United States exports to Canada for

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Alester regarded him with open irritation. "The plane's all right. I'll have Marsh cover the motor with some of this tent. Telephone the hangar, though, and tell them to come over in the morning."

Dan let his eyes seek out Jerry. "They'll make a lot of noise," he said to Alester. "It might disturb the girls. . . ."

"Hello." It was Myrtle. "How about keeping that promise to move us into the house?"

"Marsh can do that,' Alester put in curtly.

"But we're all goin' to have supper, aren't we. Gee, look at that melon! My favorite fruit.

"Thanks, but I've got to see about getting the men here to repair the plane," Dan said gruffly.

Marsh came, with a chauffeur and a light truck of furniture. The latter unloaded the truck while Marsh laid out the "little snack."

First there were small round bits of toast that he covered with tiny black eggs that he took from a jar. Jerry wondered what it was. Alester ate his with relish, dropping a little lemon juice on the black stuff.

"Don't you like caviar?" he inquired as Jerry hesitated to eat any.

Caviar! So this unappetizing stuff was it. She'd read of it. "Of course," she said taking up a canape, "but I'm not hungry. Anyway I really like the red better." That was a good touch, she felt, remembering that there was a red variety.

Alester lifted an eyebrow. "Perhaps you would like some pressed quail?" he asked as Marsh came to the table with a new dish.

Jerry shook her head. She was afraid of making a break, as she said to herself. Her mind wasn't on what she was doing. Perhaps she should have urged Dan to stay.

She realized that she had drifted away on her thoughts when a sentence of Myrtle's penetrated her dreamy withdrawal. "A hundred and fifty dollars ought to cover everything," was what her friend had said.

"A hundred and fifty dollars!"

"Oh well, it wasn't a brand new tent," Myrtle confided.

The little gyp! Jerry knew what that tent cost. Now he would think they were a couple of gold diggers as well as ignoramuses.

"I'll bring you a cheque to-morrow when I come to take Miss Ray to the doctor's," Alester promised Myrtle. "And don't be surprised if we aren't back for dinner I don't carry a clock when I'm having a good time."

CHAPTER IV

It was the novelty of the noises she heard and not their volume that wakened Jerry that first morning in "camp." The racket sounded for all the world like a chorus of cats having a concert in the trees.

"Catbirds," Myrtle said when she opened her eyes and saw Jerry sitting up in her cot, listening to the symphony of strange sounds. "You'll get used to them."

"My first chance to sleep late on a Monday morning, and the birds have to spoil it," Jerry wailed. "An elevator train would not have bothered me half so much."

"Well, you should worry," Myrtle grinned. "It's a wonder you could sleep at all with Alester Carstairs on your mind."

Jerry turned to her with an eager light breaking over her countenance.

"Isn't he wonderful?" she cried enthusiastically. "I never thought I'd meet anyone like him."

"Yeah, God's gift to shopgirls," Myrtle answered with a short laugh. Then, suddenly serious, "better watch your step, kiddo. The boy seems to like your company."

"Let's get something to eat," she said, reaching for her shoes and stockings.

"You'll have a tough time if you're always so overcome with his nibs' glory that you can't eat in his presence," Myrtle teased her. "That was some swell supper you passed up last night. I wish I knew what the salad was."

"I think it was alligator pear," Jerry replied, desiring to keep Myrtle off the subject of Alester Carstairs. She wasn't going to like being teased about him in connection with her avowed ambition to marry money, she told herself. Myrtle had a way of making it look cheap, while really, if you considered it sensibly. . . .

"Well, anyway, I'm glad you made a hit with him," Myrtle broke in on her thoughts, "I'll have a swell camping outfit next year with the money he's giving me for the damage his plane did, and we've got a stove that works, so we can have a hot breakfast."

She paused and looked around the room. "Fixed this place up great, didn't he? Just like rubbing a magic lantern. 'Marsh do this and Marsh do that!' Presto. But you know," she added confidentially, "I think the other chap would wear better."

Jerry stood still and looked at her unsmilingly.

"That's the trouble with most girls like us," she said quietly. "We're suffering from inferiority. As a class, I mean. But to me a man's a man. I can't see any reason for being less afraid of a poor man than a rich one."

"Oh, go hire a soap box," Myrtle retorted good natiuredly. "But don't think you can kid the rest of the world like you kid yourself. If you think there's any chance of your marrying Alester Carstairs you're cuckoo."

Jerry flushed darkly.

"I wouldn't want to marry Alester Carstairs without knowing him better," she said sharply. "But you don't need to be warning me about him. I've known some boys with half of next week's pay spent in advance who weren't anything to go around with blindfolded. The reason some people stop right where they were born is because they think everyone who has money is the villain in the piece. And it's a sure thing you'll never interest a man by showing him you think he's better than you are."

"That isn't it at all, Jerry," Myrtle came back earnestly. "This guy doesn't speak your language. You might as well be living on different worlds. I was born here. I know. If you were a chorus girl, now. . . ."

"What's the use of our arguing it?" Jerry interrupted. "Whatever happens will be between Alester and me."

"All right, but there isn't going to be anything between me and breakfast but just time to wash my face," Myrtle agreed hungrily.

Jerry said nothing more and in a few minutes they were trying out the new oil stove and finding it satisfactory. After a hearty breakfast they set about cleaning up the living room and arranging the porch furniture.

Myrtle noticed that Jerry frequently cast her eyes in the direction of the highway and assumed that she was thinking of Alester. As a matter of fact she was thinking of Dan Harvey. The men who were to repair the plane hadn't come and Jerry was wondering if he would be with them when they did arrive.

She was impatient with herself because he had entered her thoughts. He had no place there. What could he mean to her? He wasn't half so pleasant as his employer. She couldn't, however, forget the sensation she had known when she came to consciousness in his arms. It had been, for a brief moment, startlingly agreeable.

An hour passed. She told Myrtle that her head was aching and her friend suggested a swim. The sun was high now and the buzz of countless insects was vocal proof that the day was running a temperature.

Jerry seemed reluctant to leave the house, but she gave in after a little coaxing because she did not want Myrtle to guess what was on her mind. And while they were in the water the man came to repair the plane. The girls saw their car enter the grounds but they could not recognize any of the occupants.

"Let's go up and get acquainted," Myrtle said, swimming for shore. Jerry followed, but when she waded out of the water she dropped down on the sand and sat there. She had changed her mind. She wouldn't go up to the house. If Dan Harvey was there she didn't want to see him. And yet something caused her to watch closely while the men worked. She did not see Dan among them.

"Well, I'm going up and get dressed," Myrtle announced firmly after a while. "You'd better come along and make yourself look like you need that trip to the doctor's. Your friend might think you're going just for the ride."

By 3 o'clock Jerry was really pale and tired. The men had gone, though the plane remained. It was not yet ready to be flown. Jerry did not ask so she did not know that. Maybe they were leaving it for Dan to fly. The thought robbed the prospect of driving with Alester of a little of its pleasure. What if Dan came and flew away while she was absent? Well, of course, that wouldn't mean anything except that she'd rather like to see him take off.

Her attitude, when Alester came, surprised him. He'd been telling himself that she was flattered by his attentions, a shade too ready to accept them to suit his taste. But then, that kind of girl would be easy to handle. If she wasn't amusing after the first meeting or two he'd drop her.

He came in a black roadster with yellow upholstery and much gleaming nickel. Jerry thrilled when she climbed into it and Myrtle stood by, unable to still a slight pang of envy. It had never crossed her mind to wish she had fallen in love with anyone other than George, but she realized now that Jerry certainly was getting the break she had wanted.

"How's the head?" Alester asked when they were under way.

"Much better, thank you." She said it rather listlessly.

He turned to look at her.

"Sleep well?"

She nodded without looking at him. He jerked his head around to sight the road ahead, then turned back to her. Jerry let him look, with her eyes straight ahead. She wondered at herself. In her plans this opportunity with the "right man" had found her sparkling, vivacious, alluring. But now she didn't feel like sparkling. Perhaps something serious had happened to her head.

Alester was satisfying himself that she was as pretty as he had thought last night. Suddenly a possible explanation of her new manner flashed across his mind. Harvey was capable, he told himself, of interfering.

"Was Dan Harvey around this morning?" he asked abruptly. Jerry started.

"No," she said. "Why?"

"I thought he might have wanted to look over the plane by daylight," Alester replied. "Good pilot, Dan, but a little gruff at times."

Jerry could have told him that Dan could be tender also, but she wasn't out with Alester Carstairs to talk about his aviator she reminded herself sharply.

"Don't be long," he begged her when they reached the doctor's office. "And tell him to send the bill to me . . . no, here, it might find its way on dad's and there'd be a rumpus. This isn't the first accident. Please take this money and pay Dr. Belden." He held out a folded bill and after a moment's hesitation Jerry took it.

A hundred dollars!

Why, no doctor would charge so much. But the protest was never uttered. Jerry had a second thought.

She must not argue with Alester Carstairs about money, Jerry told herself.

She must be nonchalant—certainly he wouldn't admire humbleness, and it was but fair that he should bear the expense to which he had put her. She could return what was left of the hundred dollars after the doctor was paid.

He regarded her bravely.

"I'm glad you didn't, of course," he replied, "but I'd be happy to assume any liability I might incur with you."

Jerry was slightly confused by his remark, and her confusion annoyed her. He hadn't done anything to cause her to add a double meaning to the things he said. She turned quickly toward the house—Dr. Belden's office was in his residence.

Alester smiled as he watched her go. "Not so dumb," he told himself complacently.

"Thirty-two dollars," she said, meaning the change. "What is Dr. Belden, a billionaire?"

"He's a renowned surgeon," Alester told her. "What did he say about you?"

He took the money because something in Jerry's manner made him realize that he could not pay for her injury with dollars, except as she must pay for it. The other girl had accepted his cheque for $150 a little too eagerly. He was glad Jerry was different. Such girls as she, those who scorned small change, usually wanted something worth while, he believed. He liked costly things himself—even expensive playmates.

"I'm not to have any excitement for a while," Jerry said, and laughed softly.

Excitement! Why, not 48 hours back the bottom fell out of her world and it had been a tragedy. And now she knew that it had dropped her right into a universe, a universe that hitherto had been only a dream to her.

"In that case I'll have to see that you're kept quiet," Alester assured her promptly. "Can't go back to camp. Dan's taking the plane over to the hangar, I think. No room to take it off where it is."

Jerry wished he hadn't mentioned Dan. For the moment he was out of her mind. She'd been getting a tremendous kick out of spinning along on a work day in a car that would have drawn a crowd even if it had been parked on Fifth Avenue.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Red Sand

(Copyright, 1930).

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Though Uncle Wiggily, Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears were quite busy packing up and getting ready to go home from the seashore bungalow at the end of the week, the rabbit children and their friends, the other animals, still had much fun on the sand.

"We don't have to go until Saturday," said Jingle as she scooped a deep well on the beach and watched it slowly fill with salt water.

"We'll play as much as we can until then and then we'll go back to Woodland and have fun there," spoke her twin sister Jangle.

"Oh, but we'll have to go to school on Monday after we get home," said Baby Bunty with a sigh. "This summer vacation has been so jolly that I don't like to think about school."

"We can have some fun at school," barked Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy. "We can play baseball for a while and then football and you girls can roller-skate and roll your hoops."

"Oh, and we can tell the Lady Mouse Teacher all the things we did down here at the shore," said Jingle.

The bunny girls strung them to make a necklace.

"And we'll have something to write compositions about," added Buster.

"Oh, how I hate compositions!" cried Baby Bunty. "But do you know what I think?" she went on.

"No, what?" asked the others.

"I think we ought to look for something to bring back to our Lady Mouse Teacher," spoke the little orphan rabbit. "I think she would love some pretty shells or some pebbles or something like that."

"Wouldn't it be lovely if we could take her back a necklace of red coral beads?" cried Jingle.

"What is coral?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Coral is something like red rock, only it isn't so hard," went on Jingle. "There are coral islands, made by little bugs that live in the sea. There is red coral and white and purple, and it's awful pretty for beads. Daddicums told me that coral is the bones of the little sea bugs that have gone to sleep so they don't need their bones any more. Their bones get to be big chunks—sometimes whole islands."

"Oh, let's look for a coral island and get some of the red bones to make into a necklace for the Lady Mouse Teacher!" cried Bunty and the bunny children and their other animal friends ran up and down the sands, looking for red coral. But they couldn't find any. And when Uncle Wiggily hopped along they asked him.

I think the kind of coral you want doesn't grow around here," said the rabbit gentleman. "We must go to some warm South Seas for that. Still, now and again, some pieces of coral may wash up on this beach, but I have never seen any. If I do I'll save it for you."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Bunty. "I thought it would be easy to get coral to make a necklace for the Lady Mouse Teacher."

"Bring her some shells," said Uncle Wiggily.

Though he knew there was not much chance of finding any red coral at the beach where he had built his summer seaweed bungalow, still Mr. Longears did not give up looking. Every time he hopped along the shore he looked carefully. And one afternoon, having hopped around a big bunch of seaweed the waves had cast up on shore, all of a sudden the bunny saw, just ahead of him, a lot of what looked like red sand.

"Goodness me! I hope none of my little bunnies have had the nose bleed as badly as all that!" cried Mr. Longears. For the sand was very red. Hopping closer the bunny uncle saw that the red came from many pieces of coral that had been cast up on shore. Perhaps it came from some far-off South Sea coral island where it had been torn loose by a big storm. At any rate, the beach was covered with large and small pieces of beautiful red coral.

"Come, children," called Uncle Wiggily to the bunny boys and girls. "Here is enough red coral to make necklaces for half a dozen Lady Mouse Teachers!"

With whoops of delight, Jingle, Jangle, Baby Bunty and the others began to gather the coral. Uncle Wiggily helped them. The bunny girls picked out small, oddly shaped bits of coral and put them on a strong cord to make a necklace. They had made a fine necklace for Miss Mouse and necklaces for themselves. The boy rabbits didn't want necklaces so they took their knives and cut round pieces of coral for marbles.

"Oh, how jolly surprised our Lady Mouse Teacher will be!" said Baby Bunty when the coral necklace was finished. So that's how it all happened. And if the apple pie doesn't try to hide in the bread box to make believe it's a piece of chocolate cake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Nipper.

OILY RAGS ARE DECLARED BIG FIRE MENACE

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—Life and property are endangered by oily rags left lying about in attics of homes or in corners of business offices, according to Fire Chief J. C. Toplin of Blackwell, Okla. His opinion was expressed before the convention of the International Fire Chiefs' Association here yesterday. Spontaneous combustion would set them afire, he said.

"If they are not destroyed immediately after being used, oily rags should be placed in a can set up on legs or props of some kind so the can will be kept from the floor and the air thus allowed to pass underneath," was the statement made in concurrence by O. W. Booth, chief engineer of the United States Board of Fire Underwriters.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1930

Benefic aspects strongly dominate to-day, according to astrology, which reads much of promise in the horoscope.

The early morning is most auspicious for making plans and for arriving at important decisions.

There is a favorable sign for all who desire to travel on the water. Voyages started under this direction of the stars should be successful.

This is read as pre-eminently a time for women to stay in the background, delegating business and public affairs to men.

Agriculture now seems to be subject to a prosperous influence, although there may be much dissatisfaction among farmers.

It is not a lucky sway for love-making, for girls may be coquettish and insincere.

Land values in many places should show a distinct upward trend and again there is a promising outlook for building.

Public moneys will be invested in great structures that are to become world wonders, and American architecture is to gain lastine fame, astrologers foretell.

Earthquake shocks may be felt at this time in various parts of the United States and heavy storms are pressed.

The sudden death of a famous English literary man is prognosticated for an early date.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year. Gain in many unexpected ways is indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with great powers of concentration. The subjects of this sign usually are devoted to their families and able to bring fame to the family name.

Richard M. Hoe, inventor, was born on this day, 1812. Others who have celebrated it as a birthdate include James Hall, 1811, noted paleontologist; Richard J. Gatling, 1818; Charles Dudley Warner, 1829, writer.

Shall a Girl of 18 Sacrifice Love to a Career to Please Her Family?—Straight Talk to Girl Who Bewails Having Married Too Young

DEAR MISS DIX—All my life I have had the idea that I was to have a career, and now when I am just at the age to decide what I am really going to do, I have fallen very deeply in love. Personally I prefer the domestic life and like to cook and keep house, but what worries me is that there are so many people expecting something wonderful from me and I hate to disappoint them. I do not want a career, and I think that there are many more important things in life than fame and money. What shall I do? EIGHTEEN.

Answer—You speak as if fame and fortune are something that you only have to reach out your hand and take and that your only difficulty is deciding what size laurel wreath you want and in what denominations you will take your money.

Why, child, to win any sort of recognition from the world God must first have given you an especial talent, and then you have to put in half a lifetime of such grueling work and sacrifice as you have never dreamed of before you even make a dent in the public consciousness.

Do you think the great opera singers just walk out on the stage and warble like a bird? Every one of them has spent years and years of grueling study and training. Every one of them lives the life of a martyr because she can't eat what she wants to eat, nor go where she wants to go, nor dance nor play as she would like to. She has to spend her life coddling her precious throat.

Do you think writers dash off a poem or essay or book when they are not amusing themselves in some other way? Far from it. They drive themselves to their typewriters day after day, and the things that read so easy to you were sweated out in agony.

Do you think the motion-picture actresses do nothing but make whoopee when they are not cashing their million-dollar salary checks? I heard one say one day that she would give a hundred dollars to eat all of the bread and butter she wanted just one time, but that it was in her contract that she had to keep a certain weight and she had to go half-starved. No slavery is greater than that of the film star, no labor more exhausting than that she undergoes while making her picture.

The price of success is paid by every one who achieves it, in blood and tears. Worse still, so many who do not achieve success pay the price without getting the reward. I have seen so much of this. So many girls who really had no talent who were trying to do things for which nature never intended them; so many girls with thin little parlor voices who were trying to be Melbas; so many girls who had only a schoolgirl composition ability who were trying to be writers; so many girls who could just recite pieces at the church entertainment who were trying to be actresses, and they were all driven on by their families at home who thought that they were geniuses and expected great things of them.

And these girls were working so hard and so hopelessly, they were striving so futilely, they were so sick with disappointment that I felt that something should be done about it, and that there should be a society for the suppression of parents who decide that a girl baby is a world wonder, and bring her up to feel that she has got to do something remarkable to justify that great expectation.

So, my dear child, break it to your family that they haven't hatched out a swan as they think they have, but just a nice comfortable duck and that you propose to spend your life making a warm home nest instead of attempting a flight into the world.

If you want a career, make one of marriage and wifehood and motherhood. Heaven knows there is plenty of room in that for all the intelligence and energy that any woman ever possesses. Furthermore, it is the career that pays best, for it gives you as many chances at fame and fortune as you have husband and children. Any one of them may have the genius that you missed out on and do the thing that you failed to do. DOROTHY DIX.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—When I was sixteen I eloped with a boy who was in the same high school that I was. We intended to keep our marriage a secret, but very soon there was a baby coming and we had to tell about it. My father and mother took us in and gave my husband work in my father's office, but my husband isn't satisfied and is always finding fault with my family and he is going to start law school this fall. Recently I went to the seashore and I was with a lot of boys and girls of my age—I am not yet nineteen—and I realized all the pleasure I am missing by being tied down with a husband and a baby. I am tired of my husband. I can't bear him even to touch me and I want to go away from him and the baby and everything and just have a good time. Oh, God, what I am missing! What shall I do? I can't stand it any longer. M. D. R.

Answer—Those who dance must settle with the piper. You are called on to pay the price of your folly in marrying when you were nothing but a child and you should be a good enough sport to do it without whining.

What about the poor little baby you have brought into the world and to whom you owe a mother's care and tenderness? You can't chuck a baby into an old trunk as you can a doll when you are tired of playing with it. And what about your parents, who have been so kind and generous and forbearing with you? Do you feel that you owe them nothing? Do you think it fair to dump the care of your child on your mother? There is nothing that outrages my sense of justice so much as the way in which all of the selfish young women who quarrel with their husbands and break up their homes, rush back to mother and hand over to her their children to raise while they go off to follow careers, or go into business or do something else that they find more entertaining than nursing babies and looking after small children.

When a woman has brought up her own children she has done her job and it is up to her daughters to do theirs and take care of their own offspring and not expect mother to substitute for them.

But I print your letter, M. D. R., for the warning it conveys to other high school girls who think themselves in love and who consider that it would be a romantic thing to elope with a callow boy who hasn't any way to support them. For your dream has ended as such dreams always do when they crash down to earth.

You were too young to know what real love is, and you are tired of the boy you married just as you are tired of all the other sports and amusements that you enjoyed when you were sixteen and that bore you to tears now. You have changed about that just as you have changed about everything else and just as every girl changes in the formative years between sixteen and nineteen.

You were not ready for motherhood and so your baby is a care and you resent it because she keeps you tied down when you want to be out enjoying yourself. If you had waited until you were older, you would not feel that way about her. She would be a delight and joy instead of a burden to you.

That you crave good times at nineteen, that you want to dance and run around with the other boys and girls and be carefree is perfectly normal and you may well cry out at what you have missed when you have missed your girlhood.

Let us hope that you have not suffered in vain and that some other girl will be warned by your sad fate and kept from making a too-young marriage. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX.—The question has arisen as to whether it is right or wrong for a young girl to have dinner at a public restaurant with her employer, who is a married man, when she works late. The girl's parents approve and also insist upon her employer bringing her home. The girl contends that it is all right as long as there is no affair between the two, but it is causing trouble in the man's home. L. E. H.

Answer.—If the wife objects, that should settle the question with the girl, as she should not wish to cause trouble between her employer and his wife. At any rate, it is an indiscretion on the girl's part, for the world, being what it is, is sure to misjudge her and no matter how innocent she may be, she will not escape being gossiped about if she is seen dining in public with her employer. Better a sandwich than a scandal. DOROTHY DIX.

ANCIENT IDOL IN MEXICO IS FOUND ON HILL

Hindu Horticulturist Developing Beans Makes Archaeological Discovery

Special to The Times

Mexico City, Sept. 11.—A Hindu scientist who has lived obscurely in rural Mexico for the last five years, is now claiming much attention. The savant, Prof. Pandurang Khankhoje, after conducting horticultural experiments along lines initiated by the late Luther Burbank, in the district of Texcoco, near Mexico City, attracted national attention by revealing a perennial bean which he declares bears as many as 100 pods.

The learned Indian, however, did not content himself with the glory the new variety of bean he propagated brought him, but conducted archaeological explorations near his new home as a side line, with the result that he discovered an enormous idol, believed to be the largest of its kind in America, Mexican scientists hail the find as an "archaeological gem."

STANDS ON HILL

The huge stone image graces a little hill in a remote part of the district of Texcoco. The site is most difficult to reach. One must ride for three hours in an automobile from the town of Tecoac, then tramp for four hours more over terrain that would challenge the enterprise of the most intrepid mountain climber. The idol is 32½ feet high and 17 feet 10 inches thick. Archaeologists who have examined the image are of the opinion it is one of a series of idols that were erected in honor of Chalchiutlique (She of the Skirt of Emeralds) by one of the races of people that ruled Mexico ages ago.

The image rests on a base that is a fine example of delicate carving. It has a bold relief of a symbolical nature, and is adorned with gracefully engraved lines. The idol is indeed a work of art and is remarkably well preserved, although it has apparently withstood the ravages of the climate for perhaps thousands of years. The huge neck is graced with a cunningly carved necklace and a crown adorns the head. The face was wrought with rare beauty. A broad leaf, skilfully carved, is held in the left hand. Some long since forgotten sculptor, who was a genius, fashioned the vestments of the goddess. These bear traces of a green color, and it is believed the ancient people who worshipped this beautiful graven image painted it a brilliant emerald.

WATER DEITY

Substance is given the theory the idol is that of a water deity by the fact the pedestal contains four fonts. An ancient Aztec legend has it that one of these fonts contained good water, but the others held had liquid. According to the legend it was part of the ritual of the religion for the faithful to drink from these fonts. Those who chose the wrong water and fell ill as a result were considered to be weak of faith and were treated accordingly, which was, no doubt quite roughly, by the lucky ones who drank sweet water.

No mention of this idol is to be found in any existing books on Mexican archaeology. The discovery, therefore, has aroused the greatest interest among scientists and laymen. Certain art lovers considered the proposal of removing the enormous image to the National Museum of Mexico here. But this plan was abandoned when it was ascertained it would be necessary to hire a veritable army of laborers to lower the giant graven goddess and her pedestal and it would also be necessary to build a spur railway in order to transport the great load from its site to Mexico City.

THEY QUARRELED

According to Aztec lore, the Water Goddess was the one and only wife of Tlaloc, King of the Rains. The pair had some fine squabbles and fought each other with the elements and other mighty things, these legends say, but they always seemed to have been able to kiss and make up.

Prof Khankhoje declares he will continue his archaeological explorations of the district of Texcoco, and by penetrating into other out of the way and all but inaccessible places he hopes to make otther discoveries which will throw further light on the remote past of Mexico.

CHASES BANDITS

Mrs. F. L. Jewett, twenty-five, above, is Toledo's newest heroine. She saw two bandits rob a bank, chased them, defied them when they drew their revolvers and finally frightened them into tossing the $3,500 loot out of their auto. They escaped when she stopped to retrieve the money, but not even a penny was lost, bank officials reported.

U.S. GROWERS SEE FRUIT INDUSTRY MADE THE 'GOAT'

Yakima and Wenatchee Producers Hit by New Tariff Deals

Newspapers published in fruit producing districts of Washington have contained many references to the new Canadian tariff on fruits and vegetables, a statement to-day from the B.C. Interior Tree Fruit and Vegetable Committee of Direction says: The shippers' organizations in the United States have made representations to the state department at Washington asking that protests be forwarded to Ottawa in an endeavor to have the duties reduced, but they admit that they have little hope of results from their action. The general opinion seems to be that these duties are natural reactions to the recent American tariff bill which raised the rates on many products which were formerly shipped in fair volume from Canada into the United States.

"Canada's precipitate announcement of a rise in import duties on soft fruits establishes a virtual barrier against shipment of Yakima valley fruit across the border. Local dealers will be forced to look for another opening for the fruit that has gone into Canada. With ninety cents a box added to pears and sixty cents imposed on apples, the price to the consumer would be prohibitive. Growers and shippers in this valley cannot compete against such a condition, since they already sell on a close margin. Canada's action was taken in retaliation of the new tariff bill approved by the last session of Congress. Of that there can be no doubt. The rates now imposed by this country on lumber and shingles from Canada may help the west side of the state, but they have resulted in no slight harm to the Wenatchee and Yakima districts. The life of the new import duties depends on how long the Canadian consumers can get along without our fruit and produce. We would not be surprised if in time the consumers insist that the duties be lowered."

The Wenatchee World of the same date has this to say: "The Canadian state department denies in an official statement that the increased import rates on fruit imported into that country is in the nature of retaliation for advanced duties upon wheat and lumber shipped into this country from Canada. It was predicted while the tariff bill was pending in Congress that foreign countries would adopt retaliatory measures if we raised the duty on imports of foreign goods. While none of them will openly admit that such is the case, there is a suspicious connection between the action of the United Kingdom in barring our low grade apples and that of Canada in doubling fruit duties, and the adoption of the United States tariff. The fruit industry seems to be the goat that is sacrificed in propitiation for the lumber and wheat producers' benefit."

"Use Palmolive Soap to avoid an irritated unattractive skin"

urges MADAME B. SCHAANNING
Celebrated Copenhagen beauty specialist

"Your face needs soap and water, but ordinary soaps sometimes do more harm than good. Modern beauty science lays particular stress on vegetable oils. These cosmetic oils—such as you get in Palmolive Soap—are fresh, healing, soothing; they bring up the under-the-surface-color and keep the skin free of irritation."

Olive oil, as you use it in Palmolive Soap, is the ideal means of freeing the skin of dirt, dust and make-up.

Madame Schaanning personally conducting a treatment on one of her clients, in her exquisite salon at Vimmelskaftet 42, Stuen, Copenhagen.

"EVERY woman dreads that look of middle age which comes with a coarse, rough-textured skin," according to the renowned Madame Schaanning, of Copenhagen. "Yet no woman need have such a skin, for the right kind of daily care keeps your skin young, fresh and lovely! And by the right kind of care I simply mean cleansing with Palmolive Soap and water."

Madame Schaanning has the distinction of caring for many of the loveliest women of Denmark . . . where beauty requires special protection from harsh weather conditions. She is insistent on the use of one soap and one soap only, because she has seen the harmful effect of ordinary cleansing agents.

Beware of pimples and skin irritation

"Pimples and other similar outbreaks on the surface of the skin," warns Madame Schaanning, "too often are encouraged because care is not taken to use the right kind of soap. That is why I lay so much stress on the use of Palmolive."

Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color comes from the oils of palm and olives, famous since the days of Cleopatra as the finest of natural beautifiers. Its naturally fresh odor makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes.

Here is the simple treatment advised not only by Madame Schaanning but also by more than 23,720 other beauty specialists in every great city of Europe and America: massage a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the pores; rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. Now—and not before—your face is ready for make-up.

See your beauty expert for special beauty treatments. And use Palmolive regularly for the bath as well as the face. Its fresh fragrant lather will do for your skin what ordinary soaps cannot do . . . and you will avoid the danger of an irritated skin.

URGES YOUNG BE TAUGHT TO HATE ALL WAR

Moose Jaw, Sask., Sept. 11.—"We must educate our children to hate war and all its satellites," said William Mansfield, M.P., fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada here yesterday evening. The Labor delegates were guests at a banquet arranged by the city of Moose Jaw, the Trades and Labor Council and the Board of Trade of Moose Jaw. They were driven from Regina, where the congress is in annual convention, through wheat fields to this city.

Mr. Mansfield outlined the penalty war had demanded from Great Britain. He stressed the fact that even yet many people in England believed in war, and that the younger generation glorified it. "We must educate them to think otherwise," he continued "We must remove from our school books those pictures which portray war scenes. Militarism can never solve our troubles."

He thought the problem of unemployment was the greatest that had existed for years.

UNITE FOR PEACE

By JACK HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Regina, Sept. 11.—"Let us be united in this great movement for international peace," said William Mansfield, M.P., fraternal delegate to the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada from the British Trades Union Congress, yesterday. The great distress existing in Great Britain to-day, he declared, could be laid at the door of the World War.

Referring to coal mining, he said Britain had lost her export market during the war by supplying only her allies with coal. Then the Treaty of Versailles had taken away this market by providing Germany should supply France and Italy with coal. The same condition existed in the cotton market, he declared.

DISQUIETING CONDITIONS

The British member of Parliament painted a harrowing picture of conditions in Great Britain resulting from the war. Even in Canada, he pointed out, the same conditions existed. "There is not one person at this gathering who has not lost friends or relatives as a result of the war. Seventy-five per cent. of our national income goes for payment for past wars and the preparation for future wars," he continued. "If we had the money required to pay interest on the war loans alone we could pay every unemployed man in Great Britain two pounds a week.

"I am sure the only solution for international peace is universal working class solidarity and it is our duty to see that never again will our comrades be used as cannon fodder because governments cannot agree on any international problem."

Mr. Mansfield made a strong plea for a reciprocal trade agreement between Canada and Great Britain. "We are importing four-fifths of our bread supply," he said. "You have wonderful wheat fields and a surplus of wheat. Can we not get together? The existing condition is tragic. Can we not come to some agreement whereby you can help us and we can help you?"
